VOL. XX.....NO. 6232. NEW-YORK, NONDAY, SEPTEMBER 11, 1871. PRICE FOUR CENTS.

RUNNING UNITED STATES FIVE-TWENTY BONDS.

OFFICE OF

FISK & HATCH,

BANKERS, &c.,

NO. 5 NASSAU-ST.

NEW-YORK, Sept. 6, 1871.

The Government have notified the holders of ONE HUNDRED MILLIONS OF FIVE-TWENTY BONDS of 1865 that they will be paid in gold; and that after Dec. 1, next, the interest will cease. All holders of the issues of 1862, 1864, 1865 and new 1865, should at once decide whether they will hold their Bonds, and take the gold when called on, or convert into the new Government 6s, 4½s, and 4s, or exchange for other securities. As it is possible the premium on gold may be much less when these heavy payments commence, it clearly becomes the duty of all holders of Five-Twenties to take the matter into serious consideration.

We are strongly recommending in exchange the SIX PER CENT. BONDS of the CHESAPEAKE AND OHIO RAILROAD COMPANY, now selling at 90 and [illegible] interest, of which we have only some $5,000,000 still unsold. The total amount of this loan is $15,000,000. They are issued in denominations of $1,000, $500 and $100, coupon and registered, bearing Six per Cent. May and November; principal and interest payable in New-York City, in United States gold coin.

We also recommend the Bonds of the WESTERN PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY, now consolidated with the CENTRAL PACIFIC. These are all coupon Bonds of $1,000 each, interest Six per Cent., January and July; principal and interest payable in New-York City, in United States gold coin. The total amount of the loan is $8,736,000; all sold by the Company. Market price now about 95. The payment of these Bonds, by the terms of the consolidation, has been assumed, principal and interest, by the Central Pacific Railroad Company.

Also, the CENTRAL PACIFIC BONDS. The CENTRAL PACIFIC BONDS are all Coupon Bonds of $1,000 each, interest Six per Cent., January and July; principal and interest payable in New-York City, in United States gold coin. The CENTRAL PACIFIC, limited by act of Congress to $25,885,120—all sold by the Company—are in sharp demand for this and the German markets, and any amount can be sold as readily as go many Five-Twenty Bonds; they are freely taken on all the prominent Stock Exchanges in the world, and should advance in the price of Government Bonds. Market price now about 102½. That the same result will follow with the CHESAPEAKE AND OHIO BONDS, on the completion of the road, we have no doubt.

By conversion into Central Pacifics, holders of FIVE-TWENTIES obtain the same rate of interest, and increase their capital about Twelve per Cent., by converting into the Western Pacifics, or Chesapeake and Ohios, the increase will be about Nineteen per Cent. Holders of Central Pacifics can exchange for Westerns or Chesapeake and Ohios, and increase their capital about Eight per Cent., and, in other case, have a bond just as sure to be paid, principal and interest, as a Five-Twenty Bond. As the amount of Chesapeake and Ohio Bonds remaining unsold is so small, and the demand very great, they must soon be absorbed. There are very few Centrals and Westerns on the market, and, the present demand continuing, they will soon largely advance in price.

We may add that the earnings of the CENTRAL PACIFIC RAILROAD will, without doubt, reach this year nearly, if not quite, the enormous sum of $10,000,000!

THE CHESAPEAKE AND OHIO ROAD is to the Atlantic coast what the CENTRAL ROAD is to the Pacific coast. It is on the shortest trade line across the Continent, and tributary railroads are now being built and projected from all parts of the South-west, West, and North-west to connect with it and run over its direct course and easy grades to tide-water.

As Financial Agents for these great roads [we are] ready and glad, at all times, to answer inquiries from Bond-holders concerning the securities and business of those Companies; and shall, from time to time, issue full reports of the earnings, &c., for their use, and in other respects keep watch over their interests.

FISK & HATCH,

Financial Agents for the Central Pacific Railroad Company and its Branches and also for the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad Company.

☞ P. S.—Accounts of Banks, Bankers and others received, on which we allow Four per Cent. interest.

Certificates of deposit issued and collections made in all parts of the Union.

EASTERN RAILROAD DISASTER.

Verdict of the Coroner's Jury—The Conductor and Engineer Guilty of Negligence—The President and Directors of the Company Also Responsible.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

BOSTON, Sept. 10.—The Coroner's jury, called to investigate the recent accident at the Revere Station, on the Eastern Railroad, completed their deliberations, and signed a verdict, at the hour of 1 o'clock A. M. today. Their session opened at 3 o'clock yesterday. The verdict was signed this afternoon by the Coroner. The jurors lay the blame primarily upon the conductor of the accommodation-train and the engineer of the Fullman train, and censure the depot-master at Boston for his carelessness in communicating the Superintendent's orders to the engineer. The manner in which the President and directors are spoken of takes off a share of the blame from the shoulders of their subordinates, and the verdict is generally thought to be a fair and righteous statement of the responsibility for the disaster. Leaving out the opening clause, the verdict was as follows:

And the jurors further find that the direct cause of said collision was the negligence of JOHN S. NOWLAND, conductor of the Beverly train, upon which said persons were thus killed, and ABNERAL S. BROWN, engineer of the colliding Fullman train. The former failed in putting the latter, by signals or otherwise, that he, the said NOWLAND's, train had been delayed on the road after starting about twenty minutes, and said NOWLAND would have known, had he consulted his watch, that the Fullman train was overdue by its regular running time before the said NOWLAND left Boston, and had an unobstructed view of at least one-half of a mile of the Beverly train as it stood at the depot at Revere directly before the collision, and could and should have seen the tail-lights of said train in season to avoid the collision. The jury further find that SAMUEL O. LUNT, depot-master at Boston, was remiss in duty in not correctly transmitting the order of the Superintendent to the engineer of the Fullman train to look out for trains ahead, thus depriving the engineer of information which might have enabled him to avoid the Beverly train. The more remote, but not less certain, cause of the disaster was the delay in the time of starting the Beverly train from Boston, said delay being occasioned by gross inadequacy of rolling stock necessary for the safe and timely transit of passengers on said road. The jury further find that frequent delays in the almost daily occurrence caused by extra or accursions trains, delayed the running of the regular trains, thus adding to the perils of railroad traveling. The necessity of telegraphic communication with trains on the road, the need of improved appliances for the safety of trains, the risk attending the use of explosive burning fluids, the want of a siding at the Danvers Branch, and the entire insufficiency of accommodations, have failed to receive that consideration which their importance demanded. We therefore find that the President and Directors of the Eastern Railroad are to a great extent responsible for the loss of life aforesaid.

THE MINATITLAN OUTRAGE.

Further Details of the Attack on the American Ship Brothers—Extraordinary Conduct of the Mexican Officials—Violation of International Law.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—Information has been received here that the American bark Harvest Home, Capt. DICKEY, arrived at Galveston on Wednesday morning, bringing Capt. THURSTON and crew of the American bark Brothers. They give the particulars of the engagement off the coast of Minatitlan, Mexico. A special dispatch from Galveston to the New Orleans Times says the two vessels were loading at Minatitlan with mahogany and other freights for Europe. For some had cendues. Capt. THURSTON had ironed one or two of his seamen, and their friends acting hearing of it, made a demand for the prisoners. Capt. THURSTON refused to give them up, saying he was fully able to control and take care of his own men. He was told his life was in danger, and he must give up the men. This occurred on shore. The Captain returned to his vessel, and found Capt. DICKEY on board, who was there on a friendly visit. Shortly afterward, a party of Mexicans, eight or ten in number, came out from the shore, pulled alongside the Brothers, and got on board, professing all the time the greatest friendship for their leader. ROMAN RIPOLD, clerk for the consignees of Capt. THURSTON's vessel, was the only one who spoke English. While seated around the Captain, as if by a preconcerted plan, the Mexicans sprung to their feet, and with drawn revolvers and cutlasses, demanded the surrender of the ship. The Captain shouted "Never," at the same time making an effort to secure the arms of the nearest man, which was the clerk, the mate of the vessel rushing forward with the Captain's revolver shot and killed RIPOLD. By this time all hands had come on deck, and a hand-to-hand fight ensued. Eight of the attacking party were killed, and two made their escape. Capt. THURSTON knowing it he remained there he would be attacked by a superior force, made sail, slipped his anchor, and tried to get to sea. There being no breeze he was forced to take to the small-boats, not having time to secure even a drop of water or anything to eat. In the meantime Capt. DICKEY had returned to his ship. True to his anticipations, Capt. THURSTON saw two boats come out from the shore and pull directly toward his vessel, as he supposed to board her. He put to sea out of their reach and lost about until picked up by Capt. DICKEY on the night of the 26th, having been nearly thirty hours without food or water. On the night of the 27th a party of some seventy or eighty strong came out from shore, and when within short distance of Capt. DICKEY opened fire on his vessel. This party was armed with rifles and a howitzer. The Captain reserved his fire until the enemy were within three boat lengths of his ship, and then let fly at them, and they retired immediately to the shore. A breeze springing up, Capt. DICKEY got under way, steering for the nearest American port, which was Galveston. The wounded men of both vessels have been sent to the hospitals.

The Proposed Soldiers' Reunion at Wheeling, West Va.

WHEELING, West Va., Sept. 10.—A large and enthusiastic meeting of the Committee having in charge the arrangements for a soldiers' reunion, to be held at Wheeling on the 19th and 20th October, was held here yesterday. Col. DWAYER MELVIN and Capt. E. H. COGSWELL were appointed to deliver addresses of welcome to the soldiers on behalf of the Society of the Army of West Virginia, and Mayor JEFFERSON on behalf of the city. It is expected that not less than two thousand soldiers from Indiana, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Maryland and West Virginia will be present. Letters have been received from many celebrated Generals who served in West Virginia, promising to be present. Gens. MCCLELLAN, BANKS and COX are certain to be here, and others are expected.

THE NATIONAL CAPITAL.

Publication of Semi-Annual Statement—Amount of Revenue Paid by Singer Manufacturing—The Health of the City Affected by Recent Improvements—Miscellaneous.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—Gen. WALKER returned here from his visit to England, yesterday morning, and resumed his duties in the Census Office. His health is very much improved, though not entirely re-established. The Government Printing Office has about twenty compositors engaged on the census report, and yesterday twelve presses were running upon it. During the present week the census office will have a limited number of copies of the first four tables, which are the most essential population tables, stitched in pamphlets and distributed to leading newspapers, the most important libraries of the country, to public officials, and a few to persons known to be specially interested in statistical investigation and study. This course is adopted for the purpose of placing the information of most general importance as early as possible in the hands of those who most need it, and of making it easily accessible to all.

SUGAR-REFINERS' TAXES.

The statement having been made in the statements of several sugar refineries on refunding claims, before the Internal Revenue Bureau, that the amount of tax collected from the various refineries, while they were subject to tax, was less than $2,000,000, the figures were looked up, and it was found that the refineries paid from 1866 to 1868, inclusive, $6,825,004 94. In the years 1869 and 1867 the tax amounted to over $2,000,000 in each year, while in 1868, in which year the tax was abolished, the receipts were $1,435,000.

THE NATIONAL POMOLOGICAL CONVENTION.

The delegates to the National Pomological Convention at Richmond, returned from that city yesterday, all highly gratified with their reception by the people of Richmond, and with the success of the Convention. Some of the finer collections of fruits, those from California, Iowa, Kansas and Nebraska, will be placed on exhibition in this city, on the 12th inst., at the display of the Potomac Fruit Growers' Association.

THE OHIO CANVASS.

Ex-Senator WADE, of Ohio, arrived in the city yesterday, looking as hearty as usual. He says the canvass in Ohio is becoming very active, and anticipates a Republican victory by a large majority.

THE HEALTH OF THE CITY.

Washington has not for many years suffered so much from chills and intermittent fever as during the past four weeks. In some localities whole neighborhoods are down with the disease, and physicians are very busy. It is owing in a great measure to the malarial influences arising from the extensive excavations now making for the purpose of carrying out the system of improvements inaugurated by the Board of Public Works. The Board of Health, taking in view the condition of affairs, have recommended a cessation of the work in some quarters until cooler weather.

THE SOCIAL EVIL.

The war on the social evil in this city may now be considered as fairly begun. For some months past the Woman's Club, comprising a score of relentless, uncompromising reform ladies, have been endeavoring to break up the traffic, by reclaiming the women, and by learning who were responsible for their fall, and then asking such parties to help sustain them. Today Dr. SUNDERLAND preached a sermon applicable to the subject, and the interest was considerably increased by the presence of a number of the reclaimed women, in charge of a matron of the Woman's Club. In the meantime, the District-Attorney and the Police have resolved to notify all the keepers of houses of this character to close in three days, or be arrested. So that, with all these summary measures, Congress, on its assembling, will find Washington as clean and as pure as a whited sepulchre.

Dispatch to the Associated Press.

THE NORTH ATLANTIC SQUADRON.

There are only four vessels now in the North Atlantic fleet, namely, the Wasbasket, Shamrock, Nipsic and Swatara, the others having been withdrawn since the 1st of January. A month ago one of them made a cruise from Yucatan to Tampico, reporting everything quiet. It was after this that the outrages were committed on the barks Brothers and Harvest Home. The Treasury Department has transferred the brief information it received on this subject to the Department of State. The latter awaits further advices before taking action in the premises.

A FOOLISH STORY CONTRADICTED.

The Post-office Department is almost daily in receipt of letters from various parts of the country, making inquiry as to the truth of a current newspaper statement that the Government will pay $600 to the collector of 1,000,000 canceled postage stamps. Of course, this statement is utterly without foundation, and it was doubtless started by designing persons to induce the collection of quantities of defaced stamps, with the expectation of picking them up in large lots at trifling cost, after collectors have ascertained the futility of the original expectation of selling them to Government.

AN INTERNAL REVENUE DECISION.

The Commissioner of Internal Revenue decides that articles liable to stamp tax under "Schedule C" must have stamps affixed before they leave the premises of the manufacturer, irrespective of the kind of packages employed for putting the same into market, whether such packages be of the ordinary and usual size, or of extraordinary, or what is frequently termed "packing in bulk;" each package must have a stamp or stamps, of the value indicated by the retail price, or the price received for a single package, with its contents. A dealer may sell directly from a package which has been properly stamped according to the price paid for the package and the contents without affixing additional stamps; but the holder who breaks the original package and repacks its contents into small packages, putting thereon his marks and labels, will be required to stamp these small packages when exposing or offering the same for consumption or sale. A manufacturer, in every case, must stamp the package in which he delivers the goods to the customer, whether the customer furnishes his own vessel for the reception of the article, or whether it is furnished by the manufacturer himself.

The Church Troubles in Hudson—No Service Held Yesterday.

HUDSON, N. Y., Sept. 10.—The meeting of the members of St. Mary's Parish, at St. Mary's Hall, last evening, was largely attended, and the action of the Vigilance Committee, on Friday, in resolving to resist to the last extremity the reinstatement of Father O'SULLIVAN over the church, was unanimously indorsed. A strong guard was placed around the church last night and this morning. Contrary to expectation, Father O'SULLIVAN did not make his appearance, and no services were held today. A considerable crowd gathered around the church this forenoon, but perfect order prevailed. It was ascertained early in the day that Father O'SULLIVAN telegraphed from Cincinnati last evening, to a friend in this city, that he would not be here, and the crowd gradually dispersed. The rebels are firm and united in their determination to prevent O'SULLIVAN, or any of his adherents, from entering the church on all Sundays, and say that they are prepared for any emergency.

STORM ON LAKE ERIE.

Two Vessels Lost and Others Severely Damaged.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Sept. 10.—Another very severe storm took place on Lake Erie on Saturday night and Sunday morning. The schooner Mary E. Hale left this port for Buffalo, with a cargo of coal on Saturday, and went on the bar at the mouth of Euclid Creek, twelve miles east of Cleveland. On Sunday morning a tug with a life-boat went from here to her assistance, and found the vessel sunk in twelve feet of water and her crew in communication with the shore. The barge Jacques Cartier, loaded with staves, from Toledo to Buffalo, was struck by the gale off Grand River and became waterlogged. She reached Cleveland with the loss of her cabin and her deck-load. The schooner Golden Rule is reported ashore near Dover Bay, but no particulars have been received.

THE WEATHER.

Synopsis of Events and Probabilities.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11—1 A. M.—The high barometer which was Saturday night central in Minnesota, has extended eastward over the lakes, and the barometer depression on the lower lakes is rapidly disappearing. The pressure has raised rapidly in the South Atlantic States, and no area of low barometer now exists there. Cloudy weather, with light rain, has prevailed on the lower Lakes during the day, but has cleared away and partially cloudy weather is now reported from New-England. North-easterly winds have diminished on the South Atlantic coast, with clearing weather, and have increased on the New-England coast. Clouds and light rain continue in Kansas and Nebraska. The temperature has fallen decidedly over the lower lakes and Ohio valley, and has risen on the upper lakes and in New-England.

PROBABILITIES.

Clear weather with light and fresh winds will probably continue on Monday over the lakes, Eastern and Middle States, partially cloudy and clear weather from Virginia to Missouri and Southward, with light northerly and local winds.

Discovery of Another Asteroid.

UTICA, N. Y., Sept. 10.—Prof. C. H. F. PETERS, of Litchfield Observatory, Hamilton College, announces the discovery of another asteroid. It was first noticed at 1 o'clock Saturday morning. Two hours' observation revealed a decided motion, making its planetary nature certain. It is of the eleventh magnitude, and will probably be 118 of the asteroid group. Its position in right ascension is no hours, fifteen minutes, and south declination three degrees, forty-five minutes.

Singular Suicide in Macdougal-Street.

Some time since, Mr. JOHN C. EDWARDS, a general dealer, in comfortable circumstances, came to the City from the South and took a suite of rooms on the second floor of No. 119 Macdougal-street. He lived pen alone for a time, but becoming enfeebled by disease engaged ANTON STAEGER, of No. 161 Madison-street, to attend him as a nurse. He also engaged the services of Dr. S. J. CLARK, of No. 143 West Houston-street, who found he was suffering from an affection of the lungs and Bright's disease. The physician considered his case hopeless, but continued to make every exertion for his relief. Last evening about 9 o'clock Mr. EDWARDS, who was apparently about as usual, sent his nurse for the doctor, but STAEGER meeting the physician a short distance from the house, was absent but a moment. Just as he and Dr. CLARK reached the door of the room they heard the report of a pistol, and entering the room found that EDWARDS had committed suicide by shooting himself through the head. He had placed the muzzle of the revolver to his forehead, and the bullet entering the brain, death had been almost instantaneous. He had sat down in a chair before firing, and after the shot his body had fallen partially back, resting against the end of a lounge, and remained in that position, while the revolver, which had fallen from his hand, lay on the floor beside him. Dr. CLARK immediately reported the tragedy at the Fifteenth Precinct Station-house, and Sergt. HOLNAN sent a patrolman to guard the room until the arrival of Coroner KEENAN. It is supposed that the cause of the act was mental depression, caused by sickness, but there may be some other explanation found among the papers of deceased when they are examined at the inquest.

A RAILROAD ACCIDENT.

Five Persons Killed or Fatally Injured Near St. Louis.

Still Another Phase in the Cheney Church Troubles in Chicago.

DEATH ON THE RAIL.

Terrible Accident Near St. Louis—Three Persons Killed and Others Fatally Injured.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 10.—A terrible accident occured between 9 and 10 o'clock this morning, at the crossing of the St. Louis and Vandalia Railroad, and Collinsville plank-road, two miles from East St. Louis. A party of picknickers composed of sixteen grown people and several children left the city this morning on a large furniture-wagon to spend the day in Illinois. When at the crossing of the railroad track at the point named, they were struck by the excursion train going to Highland. Three of the inmates of the wagon were killed outright, two mortally, and four or five severely wounded. The names of the killed were CHARLES SANDERS, JOHN BERNMAN and THOMAS MEHAN. Mortally wounded, MRS. PHILOMENA FLOOD and EMMA KERNER, and severely wounded, GEORGE FLOOD, GERTIE FLOOD, CORA GILMORE, MARY FLOOD and a man whose name is unknown. Several owners were slightly injured. Only three of the entire party escaped unhurt. At the point where the accident occurred, there is a clear view of the railroad for a mile to the west and some four miles to the east, but it appears none of the party saw or heard the approaching train, although the engineer blew the whistle and rung the bell. This is accounted for by the fact that the wind was high and the whole party singing. The horses were the first to discover the danger. As they stepped from the track they became frightened. One sprang forward, while the other began to back, and between them the wagon came to a dead halt. Just at this moment the engine struck. One horse was torn nearly to pieces. The wagon was broken to splinters. The train was stopped and all possible assistance rendered to the wounded. Vehicles were procured and the dead and injured brought to the city, and conveyed to their homes or to hospitals. No blame is attached to the railroad employes, as everything was done that could be to avert the disaster.

THE CHENEY TROUBLES.

Visit of the Bishop to the Church—He Refuses to Recognize the Pastor and Rectors.

CHICAGO, Sept. 10.—The announcement, previously made, that Bishop WHITEHOUSE would make his annual episcopal visitation to the recusant Christ's Church this morning, drew together an immense audience. The Bishop was met at the door of the vestry by Rev. Mr. CHENEY and the wardens of the church. Exactly what occurred has not been made public, but rumor says that Mr. CHENEY cordially extended his hand, with words of welcome to the Bishop, who declined to take the hand or respond to the greeting. The interview lasted but a few minutes, when the Bishop retired. A member of Mr. CHENEY's Church read the morning service, except such parts as required to be read by a priest, and Mr. CHENEY preached an eloquent sermon. He made no allusion whatever to the difficulties between himself and the Bishop.

LEGISLATIVE FRANCE.

The Disbandment of the National Guard—M. Thiers—The Assembly—Threats of Insurrection—Stormy Scenes.

Aug. 28 Correspondence of the London Times.

The scene which occurred yesterday in the French Assembly was certainly the most discreditable, as it was the most painful, it has ever been my lot to witness in any National Assembly—discreditable because the absence of tact, of temper and of dignity was more strikingly apparent in the man whose duty it was, as head of the State, to set an example of those qualities than in any one else; painful because all, except, perhaps, those most immediately concerned, seemed to be acutely conscious that it was discreditable. It was like being present at a quarrel between a man and his wife; in this case the wife, by dint of scolding and threats of publicly abandoning him, got the best of it, and the majority, like a henpecked husband who has made a desperate struggle for freedom, has again put its neck under the yoke; but it is impossible such a union can last. If ever a final separation was justified upon the ground of "incompatibility of temper," it is in this case. Unfortunately, the courage of the Chamber is not equal to its dislike of the man who outrages all Parliamentary usages in controlling it, and, unable to fight him openly, it will probably seek to get rid of him, as they do in Mexico and other Latin Republics, by some political intrigue. However, I will describe exactly what I heard and saw, and leave your readers to make their own comments on it.

POLICY OF THE MAJORITY.

There was a very decided rumor in the morning that the séance was to be stormy, on account of the sudden resolution taken by the Chamber the evening before to force on, in spite of the wishes of the Chef du Pouvoir, the final vote for the immediate dissolution of the National Guard. It will be remembered that, when the Assembly affirmed this principle by a vote a few days ago, I telegraphed that it was the intention of the Government to bow to the will of the majority. It now appears that such was not their intention at all, but that they wished it to be so understood, as a plan for temporarily stopping the mouths of the majority. However, the majority took them at their word, and M. THIERS, finding himself driven to beg, had recourse to the threat of resignation usual on such occasions, and which has become a cry of "wolf." This time the Right, seeing, however, thinking the was in earnest, occasionally went so far as to sound M. GREVY as to whether he would accept the office, but M. GREVY wisely declined, and this is the secret of the ultimate consent of the majority to a compromise. They would only be too glad to accept the resignation of the Chef du Pouvoir if they could find a man to put in his place, but no one has the combination of courage and prestige necessary to play the part. It was with the loudly-expressed intention, then, this time of carrying out his threat that M. THIERS came down to the House, and there was an anxious flutter about the Assembly generally as Gen. FELISSIER ascended the tribune, which foreboded foul weather.

PRELIMINARY SPEECHES.

The debut of the General, who read a speech against the immediate dissolution of the National Guard, was most unfortunate. The majority, in an irascible and hostile mood, listened to him with impatience, mingled with shouts of contemptuous laughter, and it went down to his seat on the Left, having done as much harm to his cause as he possibly could in the short time at his disposal. He was followed by the Vicomte DE MEAUX, who, in an admirably clear, temperate, and terse speech, explained the grounds upon which the measure was desirable. He completely carried the Chamber with him; the great majesty of the speaker gave the Left small excuse for interruption, and he finished amid tumultuous applause.

M. THIERS APPEARS.

This seemed to stir the bile of the Chef du Pouvoir, who sat immediately below him, in an uncontrollable degree; he instantly mounted the tribune, and when silence was restored began. But he had not spoken two words before he no doubt felt, as everybody else did, that he had lost his hold on the Chamber; that magnetic rapport which always seems to have grown into a complete sympathy between them, seemed broken. The Right sat cold, dogged and indifferent; when he stopped to drink, which is the usual signal for general applause, there was an icy silence, and when he began again a general rubbing, which sounded painfully like kissing. All this was unmistakable. "I have to say," "There are two propositions before the House, and it may choose," and a member at the right said, "It will choose," there was a bitterness in the sarcastic reply, "So much the better; that's what I want, and as soon as possible," which produced a counter irritation, and some indignant interruptions. The cry from the orator of a sharp speech, "You are not respecting yourselves," he said, "if you don't respect the man to whom you have given your confidence." Upon this and upon every future occasion when the Chef du Pouvoir administered an angry rebuke to the Right about their disrespect of him personally, the Left, like the pit at a theatre, clapped their hands in vociferous chorus, while the Right hung down their heads, looked sheepish, and said nothing. When, however, he taunted them with having the protection of an army of 100,000 men and still being afraid, the crushed worm turned, and the DUC DE LA ROCHEFOUCAULD indignantly protested, but was met by the threat that in few minutes separated them from his (M. THIERS') resignation and from theirs that he requested to be allowed to proceed and to explain that the danger was not from the revolutionists of Lyons and elsewhere, but from the divisions in the Chamber, "not, perhaps, according to your idea, but according to mine." It is difficult to convey an idea of the irritating tone, not to use a stronger word, with which each expression as these were thrown in. "The whole object of my life, from day to night," he went on, "is to prevent the rival parties here from precipitating themselves on each other; the whole cause of a moral disorder without parallel among nations lies in our passions." It was strange that while saying this he did not seem to realize the illustration he was himself affording of the truth of the remark. "I know men too well," he went on, "to hope to convert them when they are in a certain frame of mind; I am not speaking for Chess, but for the country, for my colleagues, for myself." This remark, the whole point of which lay in the way in which it was said, and which loses its force here, was followed by an "agitation prolongée" indeed.

HIS CONSTITUTIONAL POSITION.

All this, however, was eclipsed by the singular exposition which he gave at the end of his speech of the view he took of his constitutional position relatively to the Chamber. It is generally supposed that the meaning of Parliamentary Government is government by the majority in a Sovereign Assembly. That, however, is not M. THIERS's definition. After comparing his position with that of the President of the United States, who is theoretically more powerful, but is certainly not practically so absolute, he went on to say, "Your will is the sovereign will. If I were a weak man I should flatter you. When I think you are wrong, my duty is to tell you. If you will not allow me to do so, you have the right, and as for me, I will cease to tell you when you are wrong. If you wish to be absolute—if, when the Government you have chosen thinks you are wrong, you won't listen to it—it has only one thing to do." The storm which succeeded this remark drowned everything for some time. The first words I heard afterward were "that it would seem from the interruptions he met with that confidence in him was shaken." Loud cries from the Left of "No, no," but silence on the Right. "As for me," he continued, "considering that I have spent my life in the service of my country, I have the right to be rewarded by a little attention, and I may venture to say by a great deal of esteem." This downright demand upon the Chamber for a great deal of its esteem was followed by a sort of murmur of amazement and sympathy; it reminded me of a French actress who once burst into tears in the midst of her part, and said to the audience that if they did not applaud her she really could not go on. So they applauded her, and she went on; and that is exactly what has happened here.

CLOSING WORDS.

There was something hysterical altogether about both the speaker and the audience when he wound up with, "I will only add one word. I know the resolution which the spectacle of which I assist forces upon me," and, amid the most terrific uproar, he left the tribune, and, as I am assured, proceeded into the Salle des Conférences, and there inaugurated the resignation, which, considering how often it is required for political purposes, one might almost suppose was kept ready written. At the same time, as, in spite of all this querulous language, he completely yielded the real point at issue, which was the dissolution of the National Guard, those versed in political coups de théâtre might be excused for suspecting the whole thing to be a comedy from beginning to end, played for the purpose of securing a majority on "the propositions Rivet," for it is a singular phenomenon, and one incomprehensible to the dull British Parliamentary mind, that the effect of the whole thing has been to make the Chamber more determined than ever to confirm the authority of the Chef du Pouvoir over them for as long as they may exist. The result has been the very reverse of what M. THIERS went into the Salle des Conférences, the Chamber went into anarchy and remained there for half an hour. It was useless for Gen. DUCROT to ascend the tribune and try to speak; he came down in despair. It was useless for a member to suggest that the séance be suspended. M. GREVY looking hopelessly at it, surging and foaming over the desks and benches, replied, "It is suspended in point of fact already."

RESULTS.

At last a motion was adopted, declaring that the Government shall convoke the National Guard "as soon as possible," which is the compromise assented to by the Government instead of their being dissolved "immediately." Considering that they had determined to accept this compromise at a Council of Ministers held in the morning, it is to be regretted they did not let this be known. One can only account for the intemperate speech of the Chef du Pouvoir upon the supposition that he had some ulterior object in view, and this was to see how great a majority he could rally on a division which, while it involved a concession on the part of the Government, also implied a vote of confidence in it. For some reason it is supposed, though they are in no way connected with each other, that the RIVET proposition will have as large a majority as DUCROT's amendment. Altogether the struggle has ended without leaving a real victory anywhere; whatever success M. THIERS may have purchased has been at the expense of the principle he contended for, and of a vast amount of personal popularity. The Right have gained their principle, but at the expense of a loss of dignity and a display of Parliamentary weakness in the "presence of the enemy," which must lose them much public esteem, while the Left only distinguished themselves by violently applauding those particular remarks of M. THIERS which referred to himself, and were especialy undeserving of applause.

THE BALLOT.

Mr. Gladstone on the Action of the House of Lords.

Mr. GLADSTONE writes from Whitby to acknowledge a resolution passed by a meeting at Leeds, respecting the conduct of the Lords on the subject of the ballot. The right honorable gentleman says: "It is scarcely needful for me to assure you that I regret alike the vote, and the grounds of the vote, for the rejection of the bill. Nor do I less regret its consequences, for I am mindful of the signal services which history shows to have been rendered to this country by its nobles; of the high character, activity in duty, and wide and useful influence of very many members of that body, as well as of the serious difficulties which other countries have experienced in providing means for the discharge of the functions now intrusted to it by the Constitution. The conduct of the Government on the point (of which the people of Leeds have been pleased to express their approbation) was dictated, in my opinion, by the plainest principles of duty; and I may safely assure you that they are not likely to recede from a course of action deliberately adopted by them, and approved by the House of Commons and the country."

Discovery of a Conspiracy at Toulon—Particulars of the Gigantic Evacuation of Paris—A Movement in the French Legislature to Increase the Rate of Taxation.

PARIS, Sept. 10.—A conspiracy has been discovered at Toulon to burn the arsenal and liberate the convicts. Count LOUIS-EDOUARD BOUET-WILLAUMEZ, Vice-Admiral of the French Navy, died yesterday, aged 68 years. Gen. MANTEUFFEL, commander of the German army of occupation, after announcing yesterday the consent of his Government to the evacuation of the Departments around Paris, dined with President THIERS and Gens. DUCROT and CHANZY. The northern forts will be evacuated first, after which the troops will be withdrawn from other points at the rate of 5,000 daily. The number of deaths in Paris during the past week was 942. The returns show that typhoid fever is increasing and becoming epidemic. Minister POYER-QUERTIER has introduced in the Assembly, as a provisional and temporary measure, a bill levying one-tenth of the proposed increase in taxation to meet the immediate demands of the Government. The bill finds considerable opposition in the Chamber.

THE WEST.

A Fruitful Summer—Political Matters—The Illinois Legislature—Literature—Miscellaneous Gossip.

From Our Own Correspondent.

CHICAGO, Monday, Sept. 4, 1871.

Summer has left us, but September comes in with one of the warmest days of the season, the thermometer having been up to 91° in the shade. On the whole, we have had a beautiful and bountiful summer in this latitude—one worth enjoying. We have had only a few days of weather that may be called uncomfortably warm, while it has been warm enough to bring all the fruits of the East to a perfection rarely equaled in any former season. And, lest they have been produced in such abundance that there is plenty in the land everywhere, and especially in the West.

Politics are moving slightly. There are several people canvassing rather quietly for the Republican nomination for Congressman at large. There are no indications yet by which we may judge who is the coming man. Moulton, Cullom, Farnsell, Dubois, Medill and several others have their friends, who are making some stir in their behalf. On the Democratic side Senator Bannum, of La Salle County, is spoken of. He would undoubtedly be the strongest candidate they could bring into the field.

Wisconsin is fairly launched into the campaign. The friends of Mr. SMITH, the defeated candidate for Governor in the Republican Convention, complain of fraud, bribery and the undue interference of the Federal office-holders in behalf of the WASHBURNS family. Judge DOOLITTLE is personally popular, and I look for a close contest. In this "odd year" the Republicans, will, I imagine, have all they can do to hold their own.

In Iowa there cannot be a very lively contest, for the Democrats have to fight without the ghost of a hope of success. They, therefore, enter the campaign without heart.

Everything upon Chicago was in an unsettled condition for several days, by the contest of the bulls and bears over a corner in wheat. It is understood that the losing party in this huge gambling operation are out of pocket over $200,000. Nobody of the general public is sorry—it is merely a diamond cut diamond, as at the faro bank. The greatest loss will be to those who are honestly engaged in the grain trade. We don't see how producers will entrust their grain to the Chicago market, where it is played with like a pack of cards by a set of reckless speculators.

Arrangements are making for the opening of the Legislature in this City on the 15th of November. The "State Government," however, is compelled by the Constitution to remain at Springfield.

THE LITERATURE OF CHICAGO.

The literature of this city, as represented by the periodical press, is getting to be quite extensive, seeing that it is the growth of only about thirty-six years. There are now about one hundred and thirty-five different publications issued here regularly, and the number is added to nearly every week.

The first paper issued in Chicago made its appearance on the 26th of November, 1833. The Democrat, a fair-sized weekly, was at that early day in our history "launched upon the sea of adventure," by the late JOHN CALHOUN, who came here with press and type from Watertown, N. Y. The embryo metropolis of the North-west then contained not far from five hundred people, of all sorts, and was connected with the rest of the world by an occasional sail vessel from the lower lakes, a stage twice or three times a week across Michigan, and the "prairie schooners," which brought up "creek" from the Wabash.

A treaty with the Pottowatomies had just previously been concluded by Col. OWEN, the Commissioner, by which they "ceded all their lands in this State and neighborhood, and also a valuable reservation on the St. Joseph River, in Michigan."

That Chicago had aspirations even in those early days—before a vessel could enter the river—will be seen from the following extract from a brief editorial in the first number of the Democrat:

"We have long since determined to cease wondering at the march of improvement. The rapid tide of emigration—the rushing flood of population that is constantly pouring in upon our western borders has been to us an oft-told tale. To it we have never given full faith and credit. Our unbelief has been converted to belief, and our doubts have vanished before actual facts and experience. The reality is before us. Chicago—say, the very spot where we are now writing—a few months since was the abode of the savage, and now, where may be seen a long line of habitations for white men, a short time saw was unoccupied save by the wigwam of the savage. The change has been wrought by the hand of man. As the head of the lake which forms one of the main links in the great chain of communication between the West and the Atlantic, it must unavoidably become the grand depot and outlet of the product of the Valley of the Upper Mississippi and through it must pass the merchandise and other commodities destined to supply this rich region of country."

Although Mr. CALHOUN died ten years ago—one of our most honored and respected citizens—he lived long enough to see his predictions measurably fulfilled, and every year that passes is realizing more and more his idea of the future of Chicago at a time when ordinary minds would have seen nothing but a straggling village on the banks of a sluggish stream, and in the midst of an unpromising swamp. In the same article it is related that goods had been transported from New-York by way of the lakes, through Chicago, to St. Louis, where they arrived in only twenty-three days, at a cost of $1 62 per hundred pounds.

There is also another fact related in the same number of the paper which affords some idea of the rise in the real value of the property of this city since that period. It chronicles the sale of the school section granted by Congress—which was the sixteenth section of each township. It is bounded by Madison-street on the north, Halstead on the west, Twelfth on the south and State on the east, being a mile square and containing six hundred and forty acres. About nine-tenths of it was sold, and the people are congratulated that it bought $36,700! The City has just bought 200 feet on the same section for the Dearborn School, for which it pays $64,000. I have no means at hand at telling just how much that section is now worth, but I don't think it can be less than $20,000,000, as it is in the heart of the City.

Mr. CALHOUN published the Democrat until the Fall of 1836, when, on account of failing health, he sold out to HORATIO HILL, Esq., of New-Hampshire, brother of the celebrated Senator, ISAAC HILL. But failing to meet his engagement, JOHN WENTWORTH, then a stripling—not very small, to be sure, but in appearance green—who had arrived a few months previously from the same State, assumed the obligations and took the paper, which he conducted until it was merged in the Tribune a few years since.

This is the commencement of Chicago periodical literature, which has since assumed such large proportions.

We have twelve daily issues. Of these three are German and the rest English. There are four Republican English dailies and two German, and one English Democratic and one German. The rest are devoted to specialties, with the exception of the Mail, which is a general newspaper. The Tribune is regarded as the leading journal, although recently it has lost considerable prestige, and probably has the largest circulation.

Of the fifty weekly newspapers, thirteen are published in foreign languages. There are seven strictly religious papers in English. Of these the Standard is the oldest, having been established as the Watchman of the Prairies about twenty-three years ago, and it has much the largest circulation in the West. Almost everything is represented in our weekly publications—politics, religion, temperance, insurance, Spiritualism, the working men, law, literature, commerce, education, agriculture, adventure, Odd Fellowship, Masonry, &c. We have two biweeklies, one devoted to Spiritualism, and the other "opposition to secret societies;" two semi-monthlies devoted a very light kind of literature; thirty-nine monthlies representing architecture, art, agriculture, music, insurance, medicine, various schools, commerce, conviviality advertising, the soldiers, literature, temperance, the family, the children, universalism, live stock, the Sunday-school, education and the post-office. The Lake-Side Monthly is a magazine of considerable merit, and will compare well with a large proportion of the magazines published in the Eastern cities. Of bi-monthlies we have the Congregational Review and the Art Review, and to close up the list with there are three quarterlies. There are quite a number of publications devoted to different branches of business, which are not very literary in their character. Your readers will see that Chicago is making some progress in other than material lines.

THE ADIRONDACKS.

Advantages of a Ranch Life—Beautiful Scenery—A Description of Placid Lake —Chicago the Definitive Place to Spend the Summer.

From Our Own Correspondent.

LAKE PLACID, NORTH ELBA, ESSEX COUNTY, Monday, Sept. 4, 1871.

Despite the amount written and printed every year on this "Lake Country" of New-York nothing ever does justice to the indescribable beauty and delicious, inspiring atmosphere of this lovely region. "The Northern Wilderness" is unreal title, is not characteristic, for the outlines of every new landscape meeting the traveler's view are the most soft and gentle possible. There are few rugged cliffs or rocky mountain lines or moves, jagged surfaces, or jutting crags or bare mountain surfaces; all is draped and softened and mellowed by the most graceful and luxuriant foliage and vegetation. The bright green cedar, the delicate mountain ash, lofty leaved moose-wood, and white-barked birch, and aspen and wild cherry, with the maple and beech and all the varieties of pine, spruce and hemlock, cover every island and bank of lake and river to the very edge of the placid water, reflecting in the calm depths, and hiding every roughness and inequality. The "Wilderness" often seems like some exquisite work of art, planned by man, and where suddenly a picturesque villa must appear, the centre of all this setting. Even the broken and wild outline of the Adirondacks is softened by the dreamy haze of August—the "October" of the mountains—or half hidden in the wreaths of mist which crown them.

For many years your correspondent has been familiar with every nook and corner of this interesting region, and though he often tries other mountains and lakes in different parts of the country, he always returns to these, feeling that these contain the conditions which most readily rest the overworked human machine, and give the most complete rest and refreshment to brain and body. We Americans usually make a great mistake in our vacations. We go where we keep up the ordinary strain of life. We continue the social excitement, or the association with public or business life which we have in our homes. What most men need who are doing ordinarily "the heavy work" of life, or most women who are under the strain of society and house-keeping, is an utter and entire change; society without dress or formality, open-air life, gentle muscular exercise, (which most business and professional men and the women of the comfortable classes are cut off from,) different diet, different dress, freedom from restraint and care, and, if possible, distance from telegraph and mail.

All this is easily and charmingly got in the "Adirondacks," and hardly any where else in the country so readily. There is only one hotel in the whole Wilderness where any formal dressing is in vogue; most people are clad in the healthiest of all costumes—loose flannels. The beds are hard and the quarters plain, while great numbers sleep in camp on hemlock boughs, and find themselves stronger and fresher than with all their home luxuries. There is constant temptation every where to outdoor exercise, and in its gentlest form, such as the rowing of light boats and the like. Society meets you at every turn, if you desire it, but of the most pleasant and intelligent kind, for the cream of the American population seems to float over these lakes. If you desire it also, you can have the solitude of the unbroken and primeval forest. In many portions of the Lake Country you are a week from mail or telegraph, though now the principal hotels are connecting themselves by telegraph with the outside world. The diet is the only doubtful point; but even here money can procure you, at the best houses, a luxurious table, though the most of people, we believe, are benefited by the plain, healthy fare offered them, and they have the additional compensation of paying only one-third the usual hotel prices.

PLACID AND MIRROR LAKES.

Of all this region the gem is Lake Placid. There is only one lake in the country surpassing it in beauty, and that is Lake Tahoe, in the Sierras, which has the advantage of being set in a circle of snow-peaks. A new, plain hotel—BRUEWSTER'S—has been built here, on the slope between the lake and an exquisite bit of water, now called "Mirror Lake," (formerly Bennett's Pond.) From the broad piazza of the house, the whole range of the Adirondacks forms the southern horizon. Mount Tewahma (or Marcy) rises above with its conical top, and the deep passes, Avalanche and Indian, forming dark gaps in their blue sides. Though twenty miles away, these mountains are reflected perfectly in this beautiful lake, which well deserves its name. The immediate foreground is made by different lines of wooded hills, giving the most delicious gradations of coloring and shading. It is a scene, beyond all others, the favorite of artists and the lovers of the beautiful. On the other side is Lake Placid, lying at the very feet of old Whiteface, where the eye passes from the dark, rocky promontory of the "Devil's Pulpit," through a softened perspective of green, wooded points, till it rests on the deep blue massive slopes of Whiteface, itself perhaps set against a cold gray sky. Many visitors, this Summer, have declared this lake equal to Lake Como, and unsurpassed in America. No American lake of the Eastern States so well sustains comparison with the Swiss or Italian lakes, where the snowy peaks of the Alps make the background. The new house is plain and clean, and kept by very honest and obliging people. The terms are seven dollars per week and five dollars for children. There is also a farm-house, where strangers can be made comfortable at moderate rates. It is a paradise for children, and nowhere can they amuse themselves so well.

The atmosphere here, as everywhere in this region, acts like a tonic on the system. The temperature in the shade is usually a little above 70° in the days, and the nights are cool. Once this year, in the middle of August, a very severe frost did great damage throughout the mountains. Every one is now hurrying toward the City from the whole region, and yet the most glorious season for the Adirondacks is just beginning, when the maple groves on river and lake color the banks, and reflect from the calm water their crimson and gold. The Mysteries of an Insane Asylum.

The Dublin correspondent of the London Standard, writing on Aug. 19, says: "An extraordinary case came before Mr. Justice FITZGERALD, sitting in Chambers, yesterday, which involves the reputation of some persons of very prominent position in Dublin. It was an application by Mr. RYAN, Q. C., for a writ of habeas corpus directing Dr. JAMES FOULIS DUNCAN, the owner of a private lunatic asylum at Finglas, to bring before the Court Mr. ALFRED MANDERS, at present confined in the asylum, in order that the necessary steps may be taken for testing his mental condition, and determining the legality of his incarceration. It appears from the learned counsel's statement, and the affidavits read in support of it, that Mr. ALFRED MANDERS, the alleged lunatic, who is one of the partners in the well-known brewing firm of MANDERS & CO., was confined in Dr. DUNCAN'S establishment, in April, 1869, at the instance of his brother, Mr. ROBERT MANDERS, and his own wife, and has been detained there ever since. A period of twenty-seven months, without any steps having been taken to issue a commission de lunatico, or place him under the protection of the Court of Chancery. In about two months after his incarceration he escaped, and to evade detection enlisted as a private soldier in the Seventieth Regiment, but was soon recaptured. After a long time, during which neither his brother nor his wife appeared to be continued to communicate with his solicitor Mr. LEWIS, he went to Mr. MANDERS and demanded an interview with him, which was refused. Mr. DUNCAN, on the 11th inst., Mr. LEWIS alleges contrived that Mr. MANDERS should have an interview with the unfortunate gentleman in the grounds of the asylum, and since then he has been prevented taking exercise in the pleasure grounds, and confined to a small yard. Affidavits were read from two persons who had been keepers in the asylum, and had attended Mr. MANDERS for several months, and who deposed that he was perfectly sane. Each of these men had received an excellent character on leaving Dr. DUNCAN'S service. Counsel also read letters written by Dr. MANDERS to his solicitor and to Lord VENTRY, in which matters irrelevant to his confinement will be found, which were the composition of a perfectly sane mind. They were written in pencil, as Mr. MANDERS is debarred the use of pen and ink, and sent out of the asylum surreptitiously. An application had been made in the first instance to Dr. NUGENT, Inspector-General of Lunatic Asylums, for an order directing Dr. DUNCAN to let Mr. LEWIS see the alleged lunatic, but Dr. NUGENT did not think it expedient to grant it, and the Lord Chancellor's absence from Ireland opposed a further obstacle in the way of speedy investigation, the application being made under the new Lunacy act, became necessary. Mr. MANDERS is supposed to have about £4,000 a year, and since his incarceration no steps have been taken by his relatives to place his property under legal control."

MORAN on the stump for the edification of ignorant Ohio audiences. He is the latest production from DRUDGE'S factory, is fortunately which could be a subject of ridicule in Massachusetts, where he is not known, and is only worthy of notice if it is germane to the Republican party elsewhere by exciting prejudice and animosity.

There are some queer suits going on just now in a San Francisco Court. One CHARLES W. WHITE sues MARTHA WHITE for a divorce, on the ground that at the time he married her she was the wife of THOMAS WHITE. THOMAS WHITE sues her for a divorce, on the ground of adultery, committed by living with CHARLES W. WHITE as his wife. The defendant swears that she was never married to THOMAS WHITE, and is therefore the lawful wedded wife of CHARLES W. WHITE.

Hon. IGNATIUS DONNELLY says, in his recent letter, that had the entire Democratic vote of the Second Minnesota district been given him last year, when he ran as anti-high-tariff candidate for Congress, he would have been elected, and, he adds, that his defeat demonstrated the difficulty of uniting in support of one common principle men who are widely separated on other principles, and tended to convince the Republicans of the State that it is, perhaps, better to patiently work out needed reforms in Government action inside the Republican ranks, than risk the superstructure of the past by inadequate and impracticable struggles outside of it. In conclusion, he says, that so long as the politics of the nation turn in any degree upon the questions arising out of slavery or reconstruction, he will continue to support the Republican Party, and that he cannot and will not utter a single word he has uttered or a single vote he has ever cast in favor of free love, equal rights or equal suffrage.

A Kentucky Grand Jury have made an indictment of willful murder committed in manner as follows, to wit: "The said CARL GROSAN, in said County of Jefferson, on the 2d day of August, A. D. 1871, with force and arms, feloniously, unlawfully, willfully, and of malice aforethought, not having the fear of God before his eyes, but being moved and instigated by the devil, did kill, and slay, and murder his wife SOPHIA GROSAN by cruelly beating her with a whip and with other weapons unknown to these grand jurors; and by administering to her digitalis, a deadly poison, in quantities sufficient to take her life; and by administering to her platinum, a deadly poison; and by administering to her other deadly poisons unknown to these grand jurors; and by failing and refusing to give and supply her with food necessary to sustain life, as was his duty to do, she being sick and unable to obtain the same, whereby she starved to death; and by placing and putting upon her body, and head, and mouth, and nostrils, a feather bed, whereby she was strangled, and smothered, and suffocated to death; and by confining her in a room without ventilation, and without pure air, and by closing the windows and doors of the room in which she was sick, so that the necessary air was denied her, by reason whereof she was suffocated and killed, and disease brought on by which she died; and by administering to her medicines and poisons unknown to these Grand Jurors which produced her death, and which brought on diseases which specially resulted in her death; and by other ways and means unknown to these Grand Jurors." The woman must be very dead.

HOW EVANS ESCAPED.

Curious Results of Gov. Geary's Requisition on Gov. Hoffman—How Not to Do It.

The Harrisburg Telegraph says that GEORGE O. EVANS has, at least for a time, escaped the strong arm of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and explains the matter thus:

"An officer of the law left Harrisburg for Albany on Friday last with all the necessary documents under the great seal of the State, empowering him to arrest a fugitive from justice in the person of GEORGE O. EVANS, then known to be in the City of New-York. The officer arrived in Albany on Saturday afternoon with a requisition from the Executive of this State for the surrender of EVANS. This requisition required the indorsement of Gov. HOFFMAN to render it effective; but Gov. HOFFMAN was purposely absent from the seat of Government, and the officer was compelled to await his return, which he was told would be on the Monday morning following. Accordingly on Monday morning, at the usual time for opening the Governor's office, Lieut. HOOPES (the officer referred to) presented himself and exhibited the requisition from Gov. GEARY for the indorsement of Gov. HOFFMAN. The Governor was not present, but the Clerk in the office was about to comply, when he was prevented by the Private Secretary of the Governor, who informed him that he knew all about the case—that the Governor had received a dispatch from Harrisburg on Saturday morning, informing him that a requisition had been issued by Gov. GEARY, and that Judge PARKER, an eminent lawyer residing at Albany, had called on Gov. HOFFMAN and requested to be heard as counsel for EVANS before he (Gov. HOFFMAN) took any action in the matter. The question suggested itself, to be telegraphed to the Governor of New-York, informing him of the action of Gov. GEARY, thereby giving the escape of an embezzler from this State? This will, no doubt, be discovered by an investigating committee of the Legislature.

But to resume. Lieut. HOOPES was then informed as the Governor would return at 4 o'clock, when he might call and have an interview with him. Punctually at the time specified he entered the Executive chamber and met His Excellency, from whom he learned that Judge PARKER had appeared before him as counsel for EVANS, and that he had given him until 4 o'clock to examine the papers presented, and hear an argument on the same. Hoopes reminded the Governor that this proceeding was extraordinary; that requisitions of this kind were generally recognized at once, or rejected if not in form. The Governor, however, persisted in his decision, and Lieut. HOOPES had to wait until 4 o'clock before he could learn what the Governor intended to do. At the hour specified the Lieutenant again called, and was finally informed that the Governor would permit the surrender of the fugitive on the requisition of Gov. GEARY, if he could be found in that State.

Before the Governor of New-York had agreed to indorse the requisition, Mr. EVANS, who was in New-York, was informed by telegraph what the authorities of Albany were doing, thus giving him ample time to leave the State, or secrete himself in any of the many dens so notorious in that City. Lieut. HOOPES was compelled to wait nearly three whole days before the requisition was indorsed by Gov. HOFFMAN. There can, therefore, be no doubt that the Tammany thieves were aiders and abettors in the escape of EVANS. We understand, also, that EVANS has counsel employed in New-York, who have already a habeas corpus issued, so that if by chance EVANS should be arrested there he could be at once taken before one of their OWN partisan Judges.

Health at Beaufort.

The following official circular in relation to the health of Beaufort, S. C., is published in the Charleston papers:

OFFICE OF THE BOARD OF HEALTH, BEAUFORT, S. C., Sept. 4, 1871.

For the information of the public, and for the purpose of correcting false and exaggerated reports which have found place in the public Press respecting yellow fever in Beaufort, I would say we have had only five cases of yellow fever, two of which proved fatal; the remaining three are convalescing rapidly. No new cases have been reported for the last ten days. With the present favorable change of atmosphere, and with the advantages of strict sanitary and quarantine regulations which we now enjoy, no fears are entertained by our citizens of the fever becoming epidemic.

The general health of our city is remarkably good, and our sanitary condition was never better.

JAMES M. CROFUT, Chairman Board of Health.

Official: W. H. DUNNEMAN, Secretary Board of Health.

The Tobacco Crop in the Miami Valley.

The Cincinnati Gazette says that the crop of Tobacco now being cut and placed in the shed is, doubtless, the largest ever produced in the Miami Valley. The tobacco raised in Montgomery, Butler, Warren, Preble, Darke, Miami, Greene and Clark Counties, Ohio, and Wayne County, Indiana, will this year, it is believed, reach 45,000 boxes, while last year the crop was only about 25,000 boxes. Besides being larger per stalk, the leaf itself is larger and finer than usual. A noticeable feature this year has been the few worms upon the plants. "In some places the number, which is usually legion, has been so small that it has hardly been necessary to look after them. The Gazette thinks one reason for the freedom from what is usually a dangerous pest has been the cultivation of the Jamestown weed, and the use of arsenic in the blossom of the same. The usual method is to plant the weed at intervals among the tobacco, and when the weed is in blossom to place two or three drops of a syrup made from arsenic in each flower. The miller that produces the worm takes this preparation and dies. This plan has been pursued for a year or two in the vicinity of Miamisburg, and by the better-to-know producing region, and the experiences of the present year have clearly demonstrated its efficiency, so that it appears quite sure this method will come into general use.

SECRETARY BOUTWELL.

Speech at the New-England Fair—Perpetuity of the Union—Mutual Dependence of City and Country.

The Boston Journal gives the following report of the address of Secretary BOUTWELL on Friday, at the municipal dinner which marked the close of the New-England Agricultural Fair in Lowell, Mass. The address was in response to the following toast:

The American Union—It is the great duty of its citizens labor and console themselves. In its two great wars for freedom the same trust was in the patriotism of its farmers as a national arm; it now wisely turns to the rural districts of old Middlesex for a standard to the more the great Bureau of war, and restore finances credit as a sea and ocean.

The cheer sang the "Star-spangled Banner," at the close of which Secretary BOUTWELL rose, who was greeted with applause.

Mr. PRESIDENT: The sentiment given to the Union suggests the great changes which has taken place in these twenty years. Some of us, most of us, are old enough to remember how the statesmen of the country, commencing further back than most of us can remember, to the year 1820, until the year 1850, whenever the Union was mentioned, instantaneously caused to be associated with it its overthrow and the difficulties which were in the way. The people of that day saw that our fathers, young, under the pressure of a necessity from which they could not relieve themselves, founded a Government upon given distinct and conflicting constitutions, for rather a division on the one side and a barbarism on the other; and the thought of the intervening period did not publicly announce the danger which they felt, yet there was no statesman who took into consideration the actual condition of public affairs who did not feel that every moment of national existence was a question of the existence of the Union itself. All that has passed away, and to-day, without a sentiment to the Union is offered, we think not of discussing whether it is to last or whether it is speedily to cease to exist, because we know that it is like the sunshine and the rain, for all seasons, and ultimately, we trust, for all people.

I am obliged, Mr. Mayor, for the manner in which, through your toast, you were pleased to allude to me, but I am bound to say that I claim nothing more than this, that I have endeavored, in public life, to discharge the duties as I saw them, and I trust in so doing I shall receive, as in times past, from the citizens of Lowell and the County of Middlesex, and a portion of the County of Norfolk, their cordial support at the ballot-box, coupled with their appreciation of what I have done. Not that I seek again, in any capacity, for the public suffrages, because, if that time ever existed in my career, it is now past. I look upon public office now no longer as an object of ambition, but merely was $60,894,855, or $11,204,104 in excess of July 1, 1870. The apparent balance of our Foreign trade at the close of the late Fiscal Year, on Foreign Merchandise actually marketed, was $11,404,413 in favor of the United States, or counting the difference of the amount of Goods still in Bond, $10,908. The Customs of the week past were $3,903,134 at New-York alone, and since July 1 to date $38,407,660, the revised Tariff averaging about 40 ₱ cent. ad valorem, as against $32,363,462 to corresponding date last year, when the average was over 45 ₱ cent.

We look for a continuance of activity in our Foreign Trade, both in Imports and the Customs derived therefrom, and in Domestic Exports, provided another Gold crisis is not precipitated upon the markets, by the hoarding process in the Treasury and the advantage taken of it in the Gold Room. Of this we regret to fear there is imminent danger, owing to the absence of the Secretary of the Treasury from Washington and his omission to leave some sort of discretion with the Acting Secretary, or with the Assistant Treasurer at New-York to meet the present unexpected emergency. The earnest attention of the Administration has been called, through more than one channel, to the exposed situation of affairs in this City, both in regard to the effect of an advancing Gold premium (when, in view of the recent negotiation of the New Loan, it should be going down,) upon the Public Credit, and the demoralization which it threatens to the Exports of Produce through the Foreign Exchanges, and to the Importing Interest through the want of Gold to pay Customs. And the hope is indulged that relief may not come too late, as in September, 1869, to prevent great mischief before it is afforded.

The Treasury now holds in Gold Coin $95,000,000, against which the Gold Notes outstanding for the use of the Banks and of the Importers at all the Customs ports amount to only $18,000,000. The amount reported from Washington on Saturday was $27,380,000, but since then $9,185,000 Notes have been called at the New-York Office, and sent to the Department. The prospect is of continued absorption at the rate of $3,000,000 ₱ week, unless the Treasury sales are increased, either by a special sale early this week, or the award of more than $2,000,000 next Thursday. No order was left by the Secretary to discount or prepay, if presented, the United States 5-20s of 1865, advertised for redemption on 1st of December, and as four-fifths of these Bonds are held abroad, where Money is 2@3 ₱ cent. per annum, while the Bonds carry 6 ₱ cent., and as the other fifth, or $18,000,000, is chiefly held in the Bank Department for exchange into the New Loan, there is no probability that relief to the Gold supply could come soon enough or in sum sufficient from this source to be of service.

One of our contemporaries professes to have made the discovery that the Secretary has committed himself to the payment of $100,000,000 Gold, in redemption of 5-20s of 1865, without proper safeguards against embarrassment. There need be little or no concern on this point. The secured subscriptions to the New Loan in Europe amount to $50,000,000, and in this country to $50,000,000, and it would be no hardship to the Treasury, but a saving of Interest, and a public convenience, which the whole country, as well as our trading classes, would heartily welcome, if the bulk of these subscriptions should be paid in other 5-20s than of the class advertised for redemption. The present Gold surplus is $30,000,000. The Customs of the next twelve weeks (to Dec. 1) will afford not less than $50,000,000 more, while the intermediate Gold Interest to be paid but in November is only $22,350,000.

There was quite a buoyant speculation on the Stock Exchange through the greater part of the week past. The additional rise in the Railways and some of the Miscellaneous Shares to Friday Afternoon was 1@ to 3 ₱ cent., when the turn of the market was in the opposite direction, and on Saturday prices were quietly weak. In the Public Funds the advance of the week was not over ½ of one ₱ cent., while the rise in Gold was One ₱ cent. The Bank expansion reported on Saturday Afternoon as against a declining lawful Money strength, as well as Greenbacks which begin to go to the country, as in Gold Notes that are being rapidly absorbed for Customs, had an unfavorable influence on the market, and in connection with the growing scarcity of Gold and the difficulty of placing Foreign Exchange, created no little concern as to the course of events this week. The trouble in the Tammany Ring, and the belief that it is rapidly approaching at least financial if not political dissolution, has also unsettled certain interests in Wall-street with which Tweed and his colleagues are believed to be connected.

The weekly averages of the Associated Banks, Local and National, reporting through the Clearing-house for the week ending Saturday last, Sept. 9, compare as follows with the previous week, and also with the corresponding week last year. To which we add the Gold and Currency balances in the New-York Office of the United States Treasury at these dates respectively:

The Bank return published this morning exhibits the relative strength of the movement in respect to the lawful money held as against the circulation and deposits, to which we add the position of the movement the week before, and also of the movement of the corresponding week last year:

	Sept. 2, '71.	Sept. 9, '71.	Sept. 10, '70.
Deposits	$140,774,200	$146,216,700	$134,552,400
Circulation	35,144,500	35,144,500	32,997,100
Total	$175,918,700	$181,361,200	$167,549,500

Excess	$1,003,325	$476,900	$1,171,400
Rate for money	5@6 ₱ ct.	5@6 ₱ ct.	6 ₱ ct.

The Bank Statement of the week shows an important expansion in Loans against a serious decrease in the lawful Money basis. The Loans are up $4,139,700, while the Gold averages fall off $1,626,750, and the Greenbacks $1,438,800. The general line of Deposits is down $635,700.

The Treasury Office, in this City received $3,903,134 for Gold Customs for the week; sold $2,000,000 Gold on Thursday, and paid out $657,319 on Gold Interest. The net gain in Gold to the Treasury nearly corresponds with the loss of Gold on the Bank averages. The supply of Gold at Bank and in the open market is being thus rapidly reduced, and was much as 1@1 ₱ cent. per day was paid in the forenoon for the use of the Cash Gold until Monday. The sales closed 113⅛ ₱ cent.

In the Money market no signs appear of the unfavorable change in the Bank movement. Loans on call are 3 to 5 ₱ cent., and Discounts are 5 to 7 ₱ cent. per annum, and the supply from leaders quite easy.

The Import entries at New-York, embracing foreign Dry Goods and General Merchandise, for the past week, were $8,136,736, as against $6,517,227 for the corresponding week last year. The Exports of Domestic Produce, other than Gold and Silver, were $4,894,046, against $3,012,497 same week in 1870. The Exports of Gold and Silver, $493,105, against $1,881,497 same week in 1870. The Customs in Gold paid into the New-York Office of the United States Treasury for the week were $3,903,134. The receipts of Cotton, seastwise and by rail, 2,294 bales.

The gold values of the Import entries of Foreign Merchandise at New-York, exclusive of Foreign Specie, for the calendar year 1871, are as follows, the figures being official to Aug. 5, and since semi-official from the Custom-house:

On the Stock Exchange a fair business was done in the Public Funds, but there was no advance corresponding with the rise of ¼ ₱ cent. in the price of Gold. The 5-20s of 1867 were 114¾ ₱ cent., which price, counting accrued Gold Interest and premium thereon from July 1, is 1@1½ ₱ cent. below the currency of Gold. The Railway speculation was weaker by 1 ₱ cent. on the average than on Friday, and there was more disposition shown to Bear the market, particularly after the Bank Statement in the Afternoon. The difficulties that surround the Tammany Hall Ring and the City Hall speculators have affected the Stocks, like Hannibal and St. Joseph, in which they are supposed to be interested. The decline in this particular Stock since Thursday is about 5 ₱ cent. The party are supposed to be large holders of Cleveland and Pittsburg Stock, but this has not suffered so much.

The Tribune says of the new extensions of Railway, South, by the Louisville and Nashville Company:

The Louisville and Nashville Railroad Company are prosecuting the extension of their road by the South and North Alabama Railroad to Montgomery, and the Pennsylvania Company are pushing their Southern connections to the same point. The convergence of these lines of road is said to promise a large increase of carrying on the Mobile and Montgomery Railroad. This road is already running through from Montgomery to Mobile, and, as we are informed by the agents, has established earnings equal to the interest on its bonds. This road is completed; the mortgage upon it is small, only about $13,000 per mile, and it has the unusually favorable endorsement of the State of Alabama. The small remaining portion of their bonds are offered for sale in another column by Messrs. SOUTTER & CO., who confidently recommend them as a cheap and first-class investment.

BANKING AND FINANCIAL.

☞ FIRST MORTGAGE SINKING FUND LAND-GRANT BONDS OF THE ST. JOSEPH AND DENVER CITY RAILROAD COMPANY.

IN DENOMINATIONS OF $1,000, $500, AND $100, can now be had from the undersigned or through the principal banks and bankers of the United States. The attention of investors is invited to the merits of these bonds, secured by a first and only mortgage on the road, equipments, franchises, and property of a trunk line of railroad which will shorten the distance between New-York and San Francisco some 220 miles, and in addition the mortgage to secure the bonds covers a land-grant of 1,500,000 acres of the most fertile land in the West, which is prohibited from being sold at less than four ($4) dollars per acre by the terms of the mortgage deed, and according to the present market price of the Illinois Central Company's lands is worth $16,750,000. This loan was originally for $8,500,000, but has been largely reduced by subscriptions of actual investors. The remaining balance of the loan is offered at 97½ and accrued interest, but the right is reserved to advance the price at any time, without notice.

The bonds have thirty years to run; bear 8 per cent. interest, payable in New-York, London or Frankfort-on-the-Main, at the option of the holder, without notice, free of taxes. BOTH PRINCIPAL AND INTEREST ARE PAYABLE IN GOLD. They are Coupon Bonds, but can be registered with the coupons on, or can be registered with the coupons off, and interest paid to registered owner. Interest payable Aug. 15 and Feb. 15. A liberal sinking fund, formed from the entire land sales, in payment for which the bonds will be received at par and accrued interest, provides for the early extinguishment of this loan.

Trustees—Farmers' Loan and Trust Company.

These bonds offer favorable inducements to parties desiring to fund their Five-Twenties or other high-priced securities.

In converting Five-Twenties the investors realize 17 per cent. profit on the principal; 9 per cent. per annum excess of interest; and at the same time get a perfect security.

Maps, circulars, documents, and full information furnished on application.

Though acting as agents for the sale of this loan, our firm buy and sell in their regular business the bonds of the St. Joseph and Denver City Railroad Company, those of the Eastern Division being now quoted at 103 and accrued interest. These were originally placed by us at 97½.

GRAIN—The Wheat movement has been on a fair scale, under lighter offerings of stock, and a further advance of 2c.@2c. a bushel claimed by holders. Notice

We cannot notice anonymous communications. In all cases we require the writer's name and address, not for publication, but as a guarantee of good faith. We cannot undertake to return rejected communications, nor can we undertake to preserve manuscripts.

☞ We beg to state that we shall shortly publish, in a cheap pamphlet form, in English and German, the proofs we have submitted during the past few weeks of the City frauds. The warrants copied from the Controller's books, checked and revised by the official accounts sent in to the Board of Supervisors by Mayor Hall, together with the particulars of the "armories swindle," and the numerous other frauds committed under the "Rule of Four," will be arranged in a perspicuous and handy form. A totally new introduction to these reports will be written, and explanations given which will bring the history down to the present time. This pamphlet will have a very large circulation all over the Union—over 100,000 copies are already ordered. We can print only two pages of short advertisements in this pamphlet, and it will be necessary to send in notice early of any applications for this space. We are also ready to receive orders for the pamphlet.

GENERAL.

The health of Washington City is seriously affected by the extensive excavations now in progress for the completion of sundry public improvements.

An earnest effort is being made at Washington, among the female residents, for the suppression of the social evil in that city.

A lady in Syracuse, who visited Oakland Cemetery on Thursday afternoon to place flowers upon her son's grave, was assaulted by a well-dressed villain and robbed of her watch and chain, purchased and other jewelry. The outrage was done so quickly and so violently that she had not time to alarm some workmen near by before the wretch had gone.

The Coroner's jury have returned a verdict in the case of the Eastern Railroad disaster, in which they find that the conductor of the accommodation-train, and the engineer of the Pullman train are guilty of negligence; that the depot-master should be censured for not giving proper warning to the engineer, as he had been told to do; and that the President and Directors of the Company were also responsible for not having the road properly equipped.

Dr. MEDICOTT has been taken to Garnett, Anderson County, Kansas, for trial on the charge of murder. The day is set for Monday, Oct. 9.

The Saratoga Regatta did not come off Saturday, owing to the high wind which prevailed. Not less than 20,000 people are estimated to have been present on the shores of the lake. The four-oared race will come off to-day at 10 o'clock, and the single scull at 4 P. M.

A collision of freight-cars occurred, on Friday evening, on the Stony Brook Railway, Massachusetts, caused by a portion of one train becoming ununcoupled. No person was injured, but there was considerable damage done, and twelve were detained.

The November Blunder.

It appears to be conceded that the decision of the Court of Appeals, in the case of FOWLER against BULL, will apply to the acts passed by the last Legislature, which extended the terms of the Corporation Counsel and of the Boards of Aldermen and Assistant Aldermen of this City. Under this decision, the acts in question are declared to be unconstitutional and void, and there must, therefore, be a new election of these officials this Fall. The importance of the coming election is thereby greatly increased, and the people will have a chance to commence the work of reform in the City Government sooner than they expected. The City and County offices to be filled at the November election will now comprise fifteen Aldermen elected on a general ticket, one Assistant Alderman from each Assembly District, a Register for the County, and a Council to the Corporation. It is highly probable that among the first acts of the next Legislature will be the repeal of the present City charter, in which case the Boards of Aldermen and Assistant Aldermen, as now constituted, may be swept out of existence; but this possible contingency should not diminish the efforts of our citizens to fill these Boards, at the coming election, with opponents of the "Ring" who are known to be men of character and honesty, and who will heartily cooperate with the movement for thorough municipal reform.

The present Boards, with two or three exceptions, are of the same character and calibre as the Boards which have preceded them for the last fifteen years, and which have brought such lasting disgrace upon the legislative branch of our City Government. They are living illustrations of the hypocrisy and deceit of the authors of the present charter, and of the shameless manner in which they broke the pledges by which they secured its passage through the Legislature. It will be remembered that, among other things, the Ring promised to nominate a ticket for Aldermen, made up of leading citizens and taxpayers; and, in order to give an appearance of fulfilling the promise, they did, in the first instance, nominate half a dozen men of character and standing, having made sure beforehand that none of them would accept the nomination. These men declined, as they were expected to do, and then, without looking any further for respectable candidates, the Ring put forth an old-fashioned pot-house ticket, made up chiefly of their own tools. With the exception of an occasional disagreement about a division of the plunder and a distribution of the "rakes," the Aldermen and the "Ring" have got on harmoniously together. HALL did not hesitate to sanction their recent swindle, in which they passed a bill of twenty-eight thousand dollars in favor of one MCKENNA, for five hundred dollars' worth of carpenter work done in the Marine Court; and, in return therefor, the Aldermen make haste to gratify HALL'S impotent spite against this journal by saddling the City with an expensive lawsuit in the silly attempt to get possession of our property. The common danger with which they are now threatened by an indignant public has served to unite the whole gang of Municipal plunderers for mutual defense, and we understand the Aldermen are already working to secure their re-election, and rely on the Tammany Ring to aid them.

The people should see to it, therefore, that a ticket is put in nomination for Aldermen at the coming election which will command the respect and confidence of all honest voters. The salary of an Alderman is four thousand dollars a year, in addition to which he gets two thousand dollars a year as Supervisor. They average less than one session a week, and the sessions average less than two hours. So that the salary ought to be ample to secure the services of honest and capable men, who will be content to do their duty without stealing. In the present crisis of our City affairs, no citizen, however prominent, or however deeply engrossed in private business, should feel at liberty to decline a nomination when the people demand the use of his name as a candidate.

The office of Corporation Counsel is among the most lucrative in this country, and there will be no lack of aspirants for the position. The present incumbent, Mr. RICHARD O'GORMAN, was first elected to the office by getting the indorsement of the Citizens' Association and other Anti-Ring organizations, under promises of doing his best to reform abuses, and protect the Treasury from robbery. No sooner had he got the office than he repudiated his pledges, turned his back on those to whom they were made, and joined the Ring of plunderers whose raids upon the Treasury he has done nothing to prevent. From being a poor lawyer he has become rich, like his Ring associates, and instead of protecting the interests of the City, he has protected their interests, and appeared, as he will appear in Court to-day, as their apologist and defender. He is more deserving of condemnation than his associates, because he is mentally far superior to any of them, because he had an honorable past record to maintain which they had not, and especially because, in his official career, he has combined the element of treachery to his friends and supporters, with the betrayal of a public trust. In order to make sure of his services a year longer, the Ring procured the passage of a law last Winter extending his term till the 1st of January, 1873. Now that the law is declared unconstitutional, they will doubtless nominate him for re-election, and it behooves the people to see that he is defeated, and an honest, trustworthy lawyer put in his place.

In addition to the above City officials, there are two Judges of the Superior Court, one Judge of the Supreme Court, one Judge each of the Common Pleas and Marine Courts, twenty-one members of the Assembly, and five Senators to be chosen in this City at the November election. The election will, therefore, be an important one for our citizens, and steps should be speedily taken to organize for a successful campaign. The Tammany leaders are already pulling the wires with a view to maintaining their supremacy and filling all the offices with their tools. They have the entire patronage of the City at their command, including sinecures without number, and they will make a desperate fight, for, with them, it is an issue of life or death. But they have a large majority of the people against them, and with proper combination and a fair election they can be defeated. Whether it is possible to get a fair election or not is a question we shall consider hereafter.

Odds and Ends.

There are various facts floating about which are worth bringing together, since they tend to throw light on the present condition and prospects of our beloved rulers. In the first place, and to quote without further preface fact number one, Mr. JOSEPH H. TOOKER sends us from the "Oriental Club"—which we have no doubt is a most desirable club to belong to—an account of some forthcoming celebrations in honor of our esteemed benefactor, WM. M. TWEED. That this gentleman has labored long and earnestly for the welfare of the City, sometimes to his own pecuniary loss, but always in an unselfish and disinterested manner, is well known. No one, therefore, will be surprised to learn that the following tribute is to be paid to him:

"Arrangements are being made for a grand popular demonstration in favor of WM. M. TWEED, on which occasion he will be informally placed in nomination for re-election to the State Senate. The gathering of people will be in Tweed Plaza, the junction of East Broadway, New Canal and Rutgers streets, on next Saturday evening. Mayor HALL, Judge CARDOZO, and RICHARD O'GORMAN, are to be announced as speakers, and Col. ROBERTS, Member of Congress, Fifth District, will preside. Every house facing the plaza will be brilliantly illuminated. GRAFULLA'S full band will furnish the music, and a magnificent display of fire-works will be among the features of the affair. It is estimated that fully fifteen thousand citizens will participate. Ex-Marshal JOSEPH H. TOOKER is Chairman of the Committee of Arrangements, and the demonstration will be under the auspices of the Tweed Central Organization of the Fourth Senatorial District, of which Mr. MICHAEL J. SHANDLEY is President."

We hope nothing will be charged to the public for this advertisement, since we insert it gratuitously, in order to testify our respect for the great Boss around whom the people are invited to "rally." Considering how much the public owe to the Boss, we can scarcely doubt that there will be a very large gathering in Tweed Plaza, and that Mr. TWEED will pass a most agreeable evening.

Facts two, three, and four relate to the very important subject of the finances of our honored rulers. It must be so consoling to the tax-payers to learn of the continued prosperity of their masters that we shall be readily excused for copying the following paragraph:

"On Wednesday last Mrs. RICHARD B. CONNOLLY made a formal transfer of half a million dollars in registered United States bonds to her son-in-law, JOEL FITHIAN, Esq. The transfer was immediately telegraphed to Washington and entered on the books of the Treasury Department. Mrs. CONNOLLY still possesses three and a half million dollars in unregistered bonds."

The following is sent to us by a correspondent whom we can trust:

"At a sale, on Wednesday, of a large amount of the stock of the Tradesmen's Bank of this City, one of the purchasers, and that to the amount of $150,000, was Mrs. RICHARD B. CONNOLLY, the wife of our estimable Controller. In view of the prospective retirement of the Controller, and the presentation of the claims of our tax-payers for the discovering of the plunder so long distributed to the Ring through the Controller's office, it is gratifying to know that some part of the 'swag' is so securely and accessibly invested as in this particular instance. We take it for granted that, in due time, the Citizens' Committee will learn, first, how much money has been stolen; and, secondly, where a few millions or so of it have been hid away."

Our readers need not trouble us at present with any subscriptions for the relief of Messrs. CONNOLLY & Co.; the firm is not yet reduced to actual want. We shall, however, give another proof of our own liberality by copying from the Abortionists' Daily Go-Between, otherwise known as the New-York Herald, the following interesting advertisement:

"ATTENTION, THE FRIENDS OF MAYOR HALL.—Citizens approving of the past public services of Hon. A. OAKEY HALL, and desirous of joining an association now forming in the centre of the City bearing his name, may call at the office of M. T. GIBBONS, No. 148 Bleecker-street, to enroll their names."

We need not say that we hope our readers will lose no time in calling at the office of M. T. GIBBONS. The "past public services" of "Hon." A. OAKEY HALL do, indeed, well deserve recognition—especially the service he did us when he put his name to the back of fraudulent warrants for over Thirteen Millions of dollars. It is often said that Republics are ungrateful. We trust Mayor HALL will never suffer by reason of that besetting sin.

The above scraps are all of a highly satisfactory character. We cannot say the same of the following, which comes from the editor of the Citizen, Mr. ROBERT B. ROOSEVELT, a Democrat, a truthful man, and an authority on such subjects entitled to unusual deference. We believe that Mr. ROOSEVELT'S statement may be fully credited, and we advise business men and all other citizens to cut it out and stick it in their pocket-books:

"We hear rumors which come to us in such a shape as cannot disbelieve them, that Municipal matters are much worse even than has been supposed, that the half has not been told, and that our City debt, instead of being $135,000,000, as we stated, is not less than $200,000,000."

Let us all go to Tweed Plaza and throw up our hats for the "Boss."

Tammany Hall for the Republican Convention.

The Tammany Republican General Committee hold a meeting this evening for the election of delegates to the State Convention. We understand they have matured a plan which they think will succeed in throwing dust in the eyes of the Convention, and securing its recognition of them as the representatives of genuine Republicanism in this City. The plan is to send as delegates to the Convention a set of men who are unobjectionable as to character and standing, but who are not active working Republicans, and have no real connection, and probably very little sympathy, with the Tammany branch of the party in this City. These men are to be put forward as representing the character, standing and objects of the Tammany Republicans of New-York, just as Mr. GREELEY was, and still is used to bolster up the faction in the capacity of figure-head. We hear the name of Judge PORTER mentioned, among others, as one of the delegates to be elected to-night. The trick is too transparent and will not work. If the gentlemen to be selected consult their own reputations, they will refuse to be made the instruments of any such faction. The real character and purposes of the Tammany Republicans of this City are too well known to the party throughout the State to make any attempt at deception practicable at this late day. The State Committee took the trouble to make a thorough and impartial investigation of the whole subject last Fall, and rendered their verdict accordingly. We have no more doubt that the State Convention will ratify their verdict, and indorse their action, than Mr. GREELEY had when he told the Committee over which he presides, on accepting its Chairmanship, that "he would neither go to the Convention himself nor sign the credentials of any one else, with the slightest hope of obtaining the seats claimed by the delegates elected in pursuance of the directions of the State Committee."

The Double Battle in Germany.

The German Liberals, in attempting to gather in the fruits of the war with France, have a double battle to fight—with the ultra Catholic party on one side, and the ultra Protestant on the other. Count BISMARCK has fairly thrown down the glove to the Ultramontane faction, so that the whole power of the Government will act with the Liberals in their struggle against the pretensions of the Romish Hierarchy. A most important movement—often described in these columns—has begun within the Roman Church itself, and the liberal Catholics of Bavaria and South Germany form a nucleus for a national reaction against the Papal rule, which may yet result in an independent German Catholic Church. Still, such a result is by no means easy or simple. The Bavarian peasantry are ignorant and bigotedly Romanist. The priests have an immense influence over them. The Catholics of the lower classes in other portions of Germany are by no means so inspired with modern ideas as the higher clergy. Religious differences have a depth and intensity which no other differences possess. Germany has had, in the past, too terrible an experience of religious wars to desire to press the disagreements in matters of faith and ecclesiastical practice, to an extreme. The Government, even of Count BISMARCK, would hardly consent to press the ignorant Catholics to the wall. Emperor WILLIAM may believe first in an Imperial Protestant Church, but he believes more in a united Imperial Germany. He and his advisers will undoubtedly, if the extreme Catholics hold out, consent to some compromise with them in their relations to the State.

But precisely here is the strength of the Liberal position in Germany. The progressive party are, of course, more hostile to the Catholic pretensions than to the Protestant. They know thoroughly the close connection of the Papal ideas and aims with popular ignorance and governmental tyranny. There is none of the American indifference in Germany to the political dangers always threatened by the Catholic hierarchy. But the advanced German Liberals hate both Churches so long as they are connected with the State. They have the American ideal before their eyes—a "free Church in a free State." They aim at secularizing all State institutions. They desire to have baptism, communion, and all Church exercises purely a matter for the individual or his Church, under no direction or control by the State. Marriage they would make a civil bond, to be entered into according to preference, under religious or civil ceremonies. Above all, they strive to separate education from all ecclesiastical or State control. They aim at a system of popular schools which shall be as free from influence of Church or State as our own. At present, religious instruction, the teaching of catechism and creed, the appointing of courses of study, are as much a part of the duties of the Cabinet in Berlin, as the regulation of the currency and the negotiation of treaties.

The results of this enforced union of Church and State have been most disastrous, both on clergy and people. The Protestant pastors—though often faithful and self-sacrificing men—are looked upon by the intelligent classes as worldly, self-seeking, and reactionary instruments of the hierarchy and the Government. There is little of that "unbought respect" for them in the hearts of the people, which, in this country, is the richest of all rewards for the toils and sacrifices of the Protestant pastor. Nor are they generally so desirous of public honor for services in the cause of liberty and humanity, as are our own clergymen. They represent officially the side of reaction and priestcraft, while American pastors are often in the front rank of the party of progress and reform. On the other hand, the cultivated classes have come to look upon religion as one of the Police institutions of the State, and have lost faith in its external truths. Unbounded skepticism or indifference has been the fruit of this union of Church and State.

The Liberals will have a peculiar advantage in striking at this union, as their position is the only logical one in the treatment of the Catholic question. They will come before the country on the broad platform of treating all sects and churches alike—absolute freedom to all, absolute separation of church and school, or Church and Government; the Catholic and Protestant; the same before the law; the same in school; the same in relation to the Central Government; no interference in school or legislation with the faith or religious practice of Jew, Romanist, Protestant, or infidel. With such principles or declarations they will have a definite, practical, clear "programme" of objects. They may not succeed in carrying them out in legislation for several years, for the attachment to the present vicious system is intense in Germany; but in the end, reason and wisdom must prevail, and we shall see eventually, throughout the German Empire, a complete secularization of all public institutions.

An Afflicted City.

Threatened men live long, and such may be the case with imperiled cities, but surely if the half of what we hear of New-Orleans just now be true, it must be a decidedly unpleasant town to live in. The worst of it is, that the ills impending over, or under, the City are not of a temporary nature. Pestilence comes and goes, and even Rio Janeiro still exists and flourishes. San Francisco outlasts her earthquakes, and New-York will unquestionably survive her "Ring." But the evils that menace New-Orleans are less transitory. In fact, if report speaks truly, there is considerable danger that, after her impending visitations, that City, to use one of the elegant euphemisms of the day, will be completely "wiped out," and that not even a fragment of a bridge or levee will be left whence a future New-Zealander or alligator can survey the swamp where the Crescent City once was.

In the first place it is declared that the city, like the stock market in a panic, is going down. New-Orleans, as is well known, has always been too low. Various artificial contrivances have from time to time been adopted to keep out the swollen waters of the Mississippi. The site of the town is, of course, the alluvial of the stream, and this, consisting of mud, sand, and a very slight admixture of clay, has always required exceedingly cautious treatment. Heavy buildings have repeatedly settled there in a dangerous way, and of late years the greatest pains have been taken with important edifices to rear them upon foundations of elaborately-prepared stability. Such occasional safeguards have not, it appears, sufficed to prevent an extensive sinking in some parts of the city. In one place the ground is said to be seven feet below the former level, while the superficial extent of the sinkage, 750 by 120 feet, shows that the affair is serious. It is feared that the soil will continue to descend, since there is really no stratum that can be depended upon to arrest it; and it is, of course, difficult if not impossible to say how soon other portions of the surface may be subjected to the same calamity. The reports on the subject from New-Orleans are very disquieting; we imagine, however, that an extensive system of piles will be adopted and found to constitute an effective remedy.

From another danger that threatens the city, it may be less easy to devise protection. Half in jest, half in earnest, much excitement prevails there concerning what is known as the "great tidal wave." Prof. AGASSIZ, it is asserted, has fixed the night of the 5th of October for the arrival of this portentous visitor, which is to be fifty feet high, or more, and to sweep the whole southern coast from Hatteras to Bahia. Some philosophers estimate the height of the wave at seventy feet, but none allow it less than fifty, and as there is declared to be absolutely no protection for New-Orleans against any such incursion from the Atlantic, the consternation which the likelihood of its coming will produce may be readily conceived. Such an event would settle the question of the town's sinking in a very short time, and the plunge of the St. Charles Hotel and the surrounding streets twenty feet or so downward into the mud, would become a matter of comparatively trivial moment. The New-Orleans journals, we observe, treat the affair with ridicule; but there is a certain suggestiveness about their mirth that reminds one of "whistling in a graveyard." After all, Prof. AGASSIZ either has made the prediction in question or he has not. The New-Orleans Press all affirm positively that he has. In that case the tidal wave of course must be regarded as a "fixed fact." It would never do for the distinguished savan to make a mistake on the subject. And, supposing the tidal wave to make its appearance, what are the people of New-Orleans "going to do about it?" This is a very grave question, and will require profound consideration.

A little investigation, however, of natural phenomena may perhaps suggest some comfort. In the first place, it ought to be easy to have good notice of the immediate approach of the watery monster. A telegraphic dispatch from Havana or Cape Florida should herald its approach by at least half a day. If taken high water more than twelve hours to travel from Cape Henry to the head of Chesapeake Bay—a distance of less than two hundred miles—and the tidal wave, which will no doubt be too big to be in much of a hurry, ought surely, not to be more precipitate. But even with twelve hours' start, the people of New-Orleans will have ample time to get their flat boats, canoes, and life-preservers ready—so that their lives will be safe, whatever happens to their property. But there is a source of consolation more important even than this. The rise of even ordinary tides is governed in a great measure by the conformation of the adjacent coast. Thus, a mean height of only 1.5 feet is attained at Cape Florida, against a mean height of something like 20 feet at the Bay of Fundy. Now even great tidal waves are subject to natural laws, and are doubtless amenable in due degree to corresponding modifications. Therefore, although the friendly interposition of the Peninsula of Florida may prevent the matter from being put to the test, we much doubt whether the wave, on reaching the mouths of the Mississippi, would be in a condition to do any serious mischief. For these various reasons we counsel our friends of New-Orleans to keep up their courage and their loaves, and to snap their fingers at the "great tidal wave."

Temperance Politicians.

It is the misfortune of our present system of legislative representation that it leaves no legitimate field for small minorities. Here, for instance, is the temperance minority. It is made up entirely of citizens of excellent intentions. Many of its leaders are intelligent and capable men, whose influence in any representative body would be valuable. Its views, though we entirely disagree with such of them as contemplate reform through prohibitory legislation, are based on strong conviction and a deep moral sentiment. The temperance men, in short, ought to have a hand in shaping legislation, and the fact that they do not is not more a wrong to them than a loss to the community at large. Yet, under our present system, the temperance men not only cannot elect any candidates to the Legislature, but any political action on their part, looking to that end, will only defeat their own purposes, and help place in power the representatives of the party most openly opposed, not only to prohibition, but to any regulation or restraint of the sale of liquor.

The temperance tickets, wherever nominated in this State, will draw votes almost without exception, from the Republican Party, and every vote thus drawn will add one to the strength of the Democratic candidates. However unfortunate it is that our representative machinery should work in this way, it is still the duty of all temperance men to remember that it does work so. The mere fact of good intention will not justify them in doing what will thwart their intention. That they mean to help the cause of temperance will not excuse them for actually electing a representative whose vote and votes will go every time against temperance. Nor can they wisely forget that in the election of this Fall there are issues of much greater practical moment, and of far more immediate urgency, than the one that they particularly care for. Even if it were possible that the Temperance Party should secure a respectable representation in the next Legislature, it is far more necessary that the opponents of corruption should command a safe working majority. The Tammany Ring is a greater evil than drunkenness, and we should not hesitate to sacrifice all the good that could come from a dozen temperance men in the Legislature, for the sake of overthrowing Tammany. But no such choice presents itself. It is not possible to elect a dozen, or a couple of temperance men. If it is possible, in trying to do so, to elect men who will support Tammany. We owe to Tammany the repeal of the best features of the New-York Excise law, and the inauguration of free rum and drunken Sundays. If for no other fact than this, it would be treason to their own principles for temperance men to aid in the election of Tammany supporters. But, in addition, we owe to Tammany the most outrageous corruption, inordinate stealing, and the absolute destruction of the right of suffrage as a means of correcting evils, not only in the City, but, in effect, throughout the State. Every vote, therefore, cast for an independent temperance ticket this Fall, is a vote given for the worst foe of the temperance cause, and for the continuance of gigantic and overshadowing evils in our political system.

MINOR TOPICS.

Maine holds an election today for Governor and for both Houses of the Legislature. The occasion is interesting mainly from the fact that the Democrats have tried to catch the Republicans napping, so that by a concerted, quiet effort, they might get out their vote, while their opponents, sure of success, and fearing that no special interest was at stake, would stay at home. The purpose of the Democrats was discovered at the last moment, and will fail. They stand in need of some rejoicer to the overwhelming triumph of the Administration in California, but they will hardly get it from Maine. After today no election of importance occurs until the 3d of October, when Texas elects Congressmen; on the 10th Pennsylvania, Ohio, and Iowa choose State officers and members of Legislature.

In the Coroner's inquest into the causes of the Eastern Railroad (Massachusetts) slaughter, the public has reason to be thankful that its interests have been defended by Mr. CHARLES FRANCIS ADAMS, Jr. This gentleman is Chairman of the Board of Railroad Commissioners of the State, and he has conducted the examination with great patience and perseverance. In addition to the facts which we have already pointed out, Mr. ADAMS, at the final session of the inquest, developed the following on the testimony of the President of the Company: That the rolling stock of the road has been taxed to its utmost capacity; that the road, though having some ninety miles of single track, is developed without a telegraph line; and that, with every opportunity and every obligation to know the real condition of the road, the only remedy offered by the President for the inefficiency in view was the well-intended of the best of times. As every traveler in the vicinity of Boston was familiar with the want of proper accommodations on the road, and the fact was simply notorious, the President's plea is a very weak one. The verdict of the jury takes this view, and condemns the President and direction of the Company, as well as the several subordinate officials. The truth is that the disaster presents a case of the most monstrous indifference to human life, prompted by no motive but greed; and it would not be too severe a penalty for such an offense if the franchises of the road could be forfeited to the State.

Mr. WALSH'S political opponents have found only two reasons why he should not be elected Governor of New-Jersey. One is that he is a Church member, and the other that he has acquired a considerable fortune by his own labor. From the one they infer that he is a hypocrite, and from the other that he is a miser. Their inferences, however, are more injurious to them than to him, and unless they can bring some more substantial charges against him than these, they do not appear much inclined to endorse "Mud."

Every one will appreciate the delicate consideration of Mayor HALL in refusing to permit the Republican Central Committee to disgrace the Park in honor of the California victory. The overwhelming defeat of Hackett assumed our Mayor to the quick, for, according to all accounts, HACKETT is the Golden Gate of the Pacific coast. No wonder he could not endure the roar of cannon and the smell of villainous saltpetre in celebration of such a defeat. If the election had gone the other way, we should have had firing in the Park all the afternoon, and HALL would have craved the privilege of sitting astride the cannon, dressed up a green suit, with the flag of the Commodore of the New-York Yacht Club waving over his head. As it is, the Mayor may be excused for having a nervous headache, and he cannot be expected to recover from it until he hears that his understrappers have shouldered in organizing the "public meeting" alluded to in our columns today.

Our readers will be happy to learn that the swindle described by us a few weeks since, by which a speculating land company had managed to mortgage some four millions of dollars' worth of land in the valley of the Kankakee River, Indiana, without the consent of its owners, is coming to grief. A Judge of the Supreme Court of that State issued an injunction, on application of the owners, forbidding the Company to proceed with the scheme. This injunction being disregarded, the Judge has given write for the arrest of the President and Secretary for contempt of Court, and has ordered one mortgage and trust deed for some four hundred thousand dollars to be revoked in the county where the land is situated. Every legal victory over frauds hatched in legislative bodies is a gain for the people as against the professional politicians, and an encouraging sign for all engaged in similar contests.

The Commission appointed by Gov. HOFFMAN to decide upon the new kind of muskets to be supplied to the National Guard, and for which $650,000 was appropriated by the last Legislature, has not yet come to a decision, although it has spent the whole Summer in examining and testing the different patterns of firearms. It is now announced that the Commissioners will meet this week at Springfield, Mass., where it is expected the final examinations and tests will be made. The New-York "Ring" Fire-Arms Company, JAMES H. ROOSEVELT, President, are still making desperate efforts to "raise" in the Legislature for their objectionable "Allin" patent, but they are said to be less confident of success than they were before their transactions with this City, in the matter of furnishing supplies to the new Court-house, were so thoroughly ventilated. The appropriation was a "job" from the start, and Gov. HOFFMAN should see to it that the $650,000 does not inure to the benefit of the jobbers, with no other advantage to the State than that of saddling a worthless musket upon the National Guard.

A Democratic paper in this City says of the California convention: "By what means is not to be stated, Gov. HAIGHT was renominated." Why, there is none in this "which passeth knowing." When a man has defeated Tweed by a majority of 4,000 votes, and comes out of a campaign for re-election with a majority of that amount against him, it needs no spirit come from the World office to tell us that it was a mistake to renominate him. The only trouble is, it would have been just as great a mistake to nominate any other representative Democrat. The people had become sick of Democratic principles and policy, and as the party was not ready to change them, the people changed rulers.

We are certainly not surprised to see the apologists for the Ring allege that the injunction which is to be served today does not amount to anything, because the Court will continue the assessors of the Ring to transact business under the new charter; but we advise the Fools to lay no such flattering unction to their souls. It still remains charged that in the first six months of 1871—under the new charter—the Ring has raised thirty millions of dollars, and that this is in gross excess of what the law allowed to be raised during the entire year. The injunction cannot be dissolved until the Ring has shown, first, what was done with this money; second, that the provisions of the Two per Cent. lo where been complied with; and third, that its members are not interested in the New-York Printing Company, the Manufacturing Stationers' Company, and the Democrat and Leader Publishing Associations. Therefore, the injunction stands a good chance of being made permanent.

The quality and quantity of gas vouchsafed on Saturday night by the New-York Gas Company to that portion of the City below Canal-street was simply wretched. The innumerable lamps in the City Hall Park were almost eclipsed, and everybody who had work to do experienced the greatest difficulty in performing their labors. The worst of it is, that this is not the first time the New-York Company has lightened the supply of gas on Saturday nights, and much inconvenience and loss has been experienced by those unfortunately compelled to submit to the whims of the Company.

The Sangerbund Singing School.

A sort of singing school picnic, under the auspices of the Germania Saengerbund, came off yesterday at Jones' Wood, about 5,000 persons being present. The classes were represented by about 200 children, from seven to twelve years of age, and the manner in which they acquitted themselves was very gratifying to friends and teachers. The societies represented were the Saengerrunde, sixty members, HARRY BRANDSTON, President, and members of the Arion, Liederkranz, and Mannerchor. Dr. THEODORE E. HELDENFELD, President of all the societies in the City, who arrived from Europe on Friday last, was on the ground, and appeared highly delighted.

THE AQUATIC CARNIVAL.

Gossip About the Contesting Crews in Today's Races.

Sunday in Saratoga—The Sports at Rest—A Visit to the Lake—The Pools and the Betting.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Sept. 10.—The postponement of the four-oared race until to-morrow morning, although decidedly distasteful to the crowds who had come up for the day, was probably a very judicious arrangement, as the water was certainly too rough for small racing. Saturday evening the boat-sailing at the Grand Union commenced afresh, and before the melodious voice of Dr. UNDERWOOD ceased, some $15,000 had been transferred from the pockets of the speculators to the pockets of Jem Ivers. The Taylor-Winship crew were the favorite over the Ravenswing crew by the odds of 100 to 85, and there were those who thought that even odds on this point could be obtained as an entirely safe bet. When the fact is taken into consideration the merits of the crews are very evenly matched, when the fact that the Ravenswing crew are backed at even money against the field. The Tyne crew are quite confident that they can win and stack that they would have won the Halifax regatta if they had not pulled nearly two hundred yards out of their course, and also that RAGGET, the substitute for the deceased RENFORTH, was out of condition and hardly fit to row. Such a crew as KELLEY, CHAMBERS, PERCY and BRIGHT, are not at all to be despised, and yet the Taylor-Winship men are made such favorites that you can obtain seven to one on the Tyne crew. The Burns-Coulter crew everybody knows pulled a remarkably good race at Halifax, and in spite of the accident to their boat and the illness of COULTER, were within about twenty seconds of the winning crew. The WARD brothers never looked better, and I have never seen them pull in better condition than they are doing at present. They are very confident, and made an excellent spin on Thursday morning, rowing over the course of four miles, it is understood, in less than twenty-five minutes. They are steadily backed by their own party, who keep them in the position of second favorites. The Pittsburg crew are very confident and in magnificent condition. One of their backers—who stands to win a large stake in case they should prove victorious—positively affirms that they can beat twenty-five minutes over that course. The Poughkeepsie crew is not expected to do anything, as their are one of condition and have a heavy boat to pull. Now, although I am a believer in the prowess of the Taylor-Winship men, and naturally infer that the crew that started from England to beat the Kenforth crew, with that wonderful oarsman in his prime, cannot help being good, I do not think that any crew will beat twenty-five minutes over that course, unless the water should prove as smooth as a duck-pond, and then it will be a great performance.

Speaking of the Poughkeepsie crew, the sports had a great joke about them on Saturday, about the WOOD-IN who cannot swim. It was rather a mistake on their part to issue a challenge for $500 a side, and imagine for a moment they could carry such a bounce through successfully. The Taylor-Winship crew, however, had no idea of letting the gentlemen from Dutchess County return home to astonish their friends with the intelligence that they had challenged the Taylor-Winship crew to row for $500 a side, and had been refused. They kept up the excitement, however, for about an hour and a half, went out in their boat and showed themselves, and then finding the Britishers still determined to give them a spin, they came out with the lame apology that WOODIN could not swim and would not pull. It was an awful back-down, and Dutchess County had better go home at once. When one takes into consideration the fact that they had a boat weighing 300 pounds and twenty-four inches wide, while the Taylor-Winship crew would have been forced to pull in one weighing 150 pounds and eighteen inches wide, the folly of the challenge is apparent.

Sunday was passed very quietly here, and the sports have been quite on their good behaving. In the afternoon the livery-stables were given a turn of business, and many drove out to the lake to have a look at the crews at exercise. The water was still rather rough, and it was very late before any of them would venture out. The WARDS went out at their regular time, and appear to have the steadiest working-boat that there is on the lake. Some of the single-scull men also took a turn, and were watched with considerable interest, especially SADLER, RAGNALL, COULTER, KELLEY, and ELLIS WARD. There are very favorable reports about the sculling of the latter, and it is expected he will do very well to-morrow. The betting on this event has been very light so far, and the Winship men are being made strong favorites over the others. I understand that KELLEY, CHAMBERS and PERCY will represent the Tyne crew on this occasion. A few people stopped out at Moon's last night to dine, and came away fully satisfied that his charges were higher than those of any other hotel in the country.

The arrangements for to-morrow are as follows: The four-oared race to take place at 10 A. M., weather permitting, and the single sculls late in the afternoon. The starters for the single sculls will probably comprise SADLER and RAGNALL of the Taylor-Winship crew; KELLEY, CHAMBERS and PERCY, of the Tyne crew; COULTER and JOHN EGLIN, of the Biglin crew; ELLIS WARD and GIL. WARD, of the Ward Brothers'.

There has been a large number of arrivals this evening and the town now presents quite a busy appearance. The Grand Union is the head-quarters of all the sports, who are busy discussing the events of to-morrow. The Taylor-Winship crew are backed at even against the field, and the Ward Brothers' are fancied next. It will be a very close race, as five of the crews are all pulling wonderfully well. One hundred to forty is the current price on the Taylor-Winship men for the small race, against the field. There will be, probably, eight or nine starters. The water has been pretty bad today, but toward evening the wind went down and it looks like calm weather to-morrow.

COMMODORE.

AMUSEMENTS.

"Announcements of the Day."

Attractions of no ordinary kind solicit attention. This evening a musical entertainment of rare interest will be offered at Steinway Hall, a new theatre will be opened to the public, and important changes will be made in the bills of several theatres. The chief feature mentioned is the intended earliest appearance in this country of the Vienna Lady Orchestra, about which so much has been said and written. The house to which audiences are to be admitted henceforward, is the Union-square Theatre, a very comprehensive variety entertainment being promised on the momentous occasion referred to. The "production," at Wallack's, on a scale of great splendor, of "The Princess of Trebizonde," one of OFFENBACH'S freshest operas, insures the presence of a tremendous assemblage in that fashionable house. "The Pet of the Petticoats" and "Family Jars," succeeding "Little Nell and the Marchioness," at Booth's, will afford Miss LOTTA's myriad friends another opportunity of rallying to her encouragement and glorification. At the Grand Opera-house "Narcisse" will be substituted for "Jasper." The week opens busily enough.

Musical.

MR. WACHTEL'S REPRESENTATIONS.

Mr. CARL ROSA, not content with preparing a season of English opera likely to be of passing brilliancy, has placed the dilettanti of this City under new obligations to him by the engagement of Mr. THEODORE WACHTEL. Mr. WACHTEL appears at the Stadt Theatre on to-night's week, surrounded by a company whereof Miss. JOHANNA MOTTER will be the prima-donna. The opera selected for his initiation is "The Postilion of Longjumeau," in which Mr. WACHTEL has won laurels the Old World over. This formal announcement of these facts appears elsewhere. It is only necessary now to welcome it as one foreshadowing a series of agreeable performances.

NOTES AND PERSONAL GOSSIP.

The chorus of the [illegible] Italian Opera Troupe has arrived, and the company will, in a few days, be complete by the appearance of Mlle. MARIE [illegible] GRAVES, and M. DARRE.... Among the new singers in this country is Mlle. THERESA CARRENO, a very accomplished violinist. Miss ADELINA PATTI has returned from Chicago thoroughly cured, and is now in town. Mrs. MCCULLOUGH is at the Fifth-avenue Hotel.

NOTES FROM THE PEOPLE.

The Civic Government.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

No attempt to prevent embezzlement and corruption can be successful which fails to secure the true Democratic-Republican principle of local self-government, and this Mr. NORDHOFF's plan does not attain.

The true principle is, that those who order the expenditure shall be the persons to pay for it, and to superintend its administration; and those only shall order it who have an interest in the due performance of the work, subject only to a general supervision, such as that which originally existed at common law. Now, what interest can a resident or property-owner at the Battery have in the roads or lighting of Harlem? and if the entire City is to contribute toward the cost of a school-house at Yorkville, the cost to each is too small for any one to care, except to get all he can load out at the cost of the whole City on his particular district.

The City, then, should be divided into about one hundred districts, the property-owners whereof and residents therein should determine the extent of paving, lighting, school accommodation, cleansing &c., &c., which they desire, pay for it themselves, and appoint their own officers and contractors. Every property-owner should be at liberty to grade and pave his own property, provided he does it on the uniform plan determined by his district, and should, in that case, be exonerated from all assessments for such grading and paving.

At common law, every parish which failed to keep its roads in repair was liable to indictment, and any one of the public could see the law in motion; such parish was also liable for all actual injury sustained by private individuals through such neglect.

A restoration of this rule, with appropriate modifications, especially giving jurisdiction to local Justices, and extending it to drainage, lighting, and (if thought desirable) to school accommodation, would preserve a high minimum of efficiency, while emulation between the wealthy districts would furnish models to be striven after.

Another most important advantage flowing from this scheme would be the "minimization of the mass of corruption"—in other words, it would diminish at the same time the temptation to be corrupt, and the means of corrupting. The functions of the Common Council would thus be narrowed to a general supervision, and to such measures as could not be carried out by each district for itself.

The Judiciary ought not to be appointed by any executive officer, but from the highest to the lowest by a Minister of Justice, directly responsible to the Assembly. This Minister of Justice may, at the same time, be the Superintendent of Elections mentioned in the scheme for the prevention of corrupt practices at elections, an outline whereof I furnished to, and which was published in your journal on a Sunday in June, 1869, (I think June 13.)

As the scheme then proposed by me has received general approval, and the most valuable of the provisions of the recent Congressional Electoral law were avowedly taken from my suggestions and are to be found in that scheme, I make no apology for thus referring to it. Respectfully, MONTAGUE R. LEVERSON.

No. 254 BROADWAY, N. Y., Saturday, Sept. 9, 1871.

Questions for Mall, Connolly and Bradley.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

The following section of "An Act relative to the local government of the County of New-York," passed April 19, 1871, chapter 378, seems to have escaped the attention which its importance warrants. Its bearings upon the present discussion of the City finances are, in some respects, as peculiar as the "Two per Cent. act," or the proceedings of the famous "Board of Apportionment." Section 2 reads:

"The Mayor of the City of New-York, the Controller of the County of New-York, and the Chamberlain of the County of New-York, or a majority of them, shall and are hereby directed to, on or before the first day of December in each and every year thereafter, ascertain and fix the current expenses for the year next ensuing, making a true and just estimate of the various sums of money which, in their discretion, will be required to defray all the various expenses necessary for conducting the County Government, and all the expenses authorized by existing special laws, and also for paying the interest on the county debt, and the principal of such debt falling due, and the yearly proportion of the sinking fund required by the Tax Levy Act, according as the expenses aforesaid are incurrable under and by existing provisions of law, and thereupon to fix and determine the amount of such estimate, and the several items thereof, which are to be established by said Mayor, Controller and Chamberlain, by the concurring votes of all present, shall thereby become appropriated as the amounts of the several items thereof, and the moneys so ascertained, thus ascertained, established, shall be certified to the Board of Supervisors of the County of New-York by the Controller; and said Board of Supervisors are hereby required to cause the same to be raised by tax, in addition to money estimated, required and certified as aforesaid, to be, according to law, raised and collected by tax upon the estates, real and personal, subject to taxation within the City and County of New-York."

In other words, Mr. HALL, Mr. CONNOLLY, and Mr. BRADLEY, (who is County Treasurer and City Chamberlain,) "or a majority of them," i. e., HALL and CONNOLLY, shall and must fix, in their esteemed discretion, the sum required for current county expenses, all legal charges by special law, the interest and principal falling due of the county debt, and the State tax payable by the county. The current county expenses are vaguely limited (1) by the direction to estimate them as already provided by existing laws. For the "legal charges under special laws" see annual Tax Levies for some years past and other laws rushed through at the close of a session. See also divers proceedings of the old Board of Supervisors, the present board, and the "ad interim" board. It is possible that these "legal charges" are susceptible of approximate calculation, and the figures of HALL, CONNOLLY and BRADLEY in the attempt would be interesting. The amount due to the State from the county for its yearly proportion of the State tax is also to be certified and raised, and is appropriated under this act, notwithstanding the Two per Cent. act includes it in the sum to be raised and paid on the certificate of the Board of Apportionment. The effect of this duplex authority may be a fair open question. The effect also of permitting these several sums so determined to become thereby appropriated absolutely upon the certificate of Messrs. HALL, CONNOLLY and BRADLEY, or any two of them, is to repose a power hitherto unknown in an official trinity not jealously worshiped by regular tax-payers. The result of appropriating the sums so fixed for the various purposes indicated, leaves an open field for just and unjust claimants to compel the Controller, however unwilling he may be, to pay a claim which may have been estimated by him and his coadjutors as a "legal charge," and for the payment of which the law has thus made a specific appropriation. And last of all, it is not impossible to imagine the case of the Honorable Board of Supervisors should they possibly rise in their majesty and refuse to raise by tax the amounts named in HALL, CONNOLLY and BRADLEY'S certificate, in view of the fact that this law makes it, as mandatory and statutory language can express it, their obedient duty to cause the said amounts to be raised and collected. Looking at this legislation and your duties under it, Messrs. HALL, CONNOLLY and BRADLEY, please answer:

1. When and where did you meet, and how many times?

2. Who was present each time?

3. Where is the record of your proceedings?

4. From what data did you make your estimates, and how long did it take you to make them?

5. Was the "amount thus established" certified to the Board of Supervisors by the Controller? and

6. Did you, Mr. HALL, attend the Board of Supervisors when that certificate was acted upon?

It will take a good many and a considerable variety of injunctions and suits to stop the leaks in the Treasury of New-York City and County, and to preserve our municipal credit; but it would be most interesting to be satisfied that Messrs. HALL, CONNOLLY and BRADLEY had kindly refrained from performing their duty as doubtless contemplated by the statute.

It would certainly be an extraordinary gratification to learn that if they did act under this law, its letter and spirit was not in all respects fulfilled. H. E. T.

"Direct Responsibility."

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

No later than the 12th day of June last Mayor HALL communicated his annual message to the Common Council, which message was at the time regarded by those who took sufficient interest to read it, as a feeble effort to vindicate the political and official action of himself and fellow-reformers. In the light of the recent astounding disclosures, and the Mayor's contemptuous indifference to the demands of an outraged and plundered community, this message contains several passages of peculiar interest. On page 9 we read: "The operation of the Two per Cent. bill, so far, in reducing expenses, (1) in preventing schemes against the Treasury (1) and arresting (1) throughout every department that tendency to extravagance which is the peculiarity of the age, even in private life, has proved a perfect answer to the frenzied attacks that were made upon it. It was to enlist all officials, corrupt and otherwise, upon the occasion of charities, and ultimately place the City in the hands of a Vigilance Committee." Upon this last point the Mayor may possibly think that his judgment was a little premature.)

He proceeds: "Considered in a partisan aspect, this limitation and taxation by the Two per Cent. bill was impolitic. It concentrated responsibility for expenditure, and such concentration of responsibility, of course, now holds local party leaders to the strictest accountability to the people."

Has the Mayor changed his opinion upon this point?

Again, he says on page 9: "Therefore, however much the people demand economy, and however many of his official associates differ from him, the Mayor is not willing to go on record without a protest in behalf of posterity against the want of foresight and generosity, which so many of the tax-payers of to-day display, and to whose clamors the City officials have responded with economical endeavors." (Magnanimous City officials!)

The Mayor did not manifest such anxious concern about the record in signing warrants, but perhaps this protest against the tax-payers' want of generosity was a ministerial act, imposed upon him by the Ring. The people are now supposed to take this at his word, and to hold him and his confederates to the "strictest accountability." A DEMOCRATIC READER.

Questions and Suggestions.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

As the bad quality of our politicians is doubtless owing in a large degree, and perhaps entirely, to the respectable voters absenting themselves from primaries and from the polls, why would not a law be proper, making attendance to these duties compulsory?

As things now work, it is the old story of a bad team—when one good voter is pulling, the other is not. Again, it is plain that New-York sends beyond its limits to reside in New-Jersey, Staten Island and Brooklyn a large number of men, practically its citizens, inasmuch as they do business and own property here. These are of the very best class of voters, namely, of the middle class as to wealth. Their number is not less probably than 50,000. Stripped of this body, the City is left without one of its essential balances against the rough uneducated element.

Why would it not be well to regain as much of this class as possible, by uniting with Brooklyn, and by allowing any resident of Staten Island and New-Jersey doing business or owning real estate here to vote on municipal affairs? That it would be unconstitutional as the Constitution now stands, is no offset against an amendment to that effect.

Again, our City is an oblong. Practically, the educated all live at one end, or up-town, and the uneducated at the other end, or down-town; hence the City, as at present divided, is at the absolute mercy of the uneducated in not less, I suppose, than one-half of its Wards. This evil can be corrected to a great extent by making all elective City offices subject to the whole vote of the City, irrespective of Wards.

Thus the entire respectability of the City could be brought to bear against any morally-objectionable candidate.

Again, why should only residents of a Ward be allowed to represent it as Alderman or Councilman? The property-owners of down-town live up-town. Why not, then, alter the laws so as to allow any citizen owning property in a Ward to represent it in the Common Council?

Up-town might, with the two foregoing reforms, nominate the entire City ticket, and elect it if there be a balance of respectability in that City. In conclusion, I bear those who doubt that there is, to examine the United States census returns as to the nationality of our voters. They will find there recorded 86,000 Irish against 72,000 American born voters, of which latter, no doubt, one-third, or 24,000, are either first-generation Irish-Americans or politicians, classes that politically sympathize with the Irish; and even these are hardly more vicious than that august body of our fellow-citizens. There are further reported therein 42,000 German voters. There are also 16,000 foreign voters of nationalities not Irish or German, which might be counted on as equally divided between the educated and the Irish selection.

Assuming a union of the Americans and Germans to be complete, and that they would represent the educated, after deducting the 24,000 previously named, at a full poll, the vote would stand, subject to the foregoing divisions, 97,000 of this against 89,000 of the Irish party. The majority is but light at best, but with the Irish politicians manipulating the Naturalization Bureau, a dyke is to a practical minority.

Do we not want more educated voters? X.

NEW-YORK, Saturday, Sept. 9, 1871.

Information Wanted.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

Can you inform me whether I am obliged to pay my assessments should the injunction against the Ring be made permanent? I am informed that the assessments for the "Courtyard" swindle, in Broome-street, between Wooster and Mercer, have been confirmed. If so, Judge CARDOZO has been very good about it, as some time since he "reserved his decision" on the application of the Commissioners being presented before him. Can you throw any light on the subject?

In sympathy with the noble path you have pursued, I am, and hope to remain,

AN EX-DEMOCRAT.

The Government of New-York.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

You offer to publish suggestions as to the best form of government for the City, and following the example of Mr. NORDHOFF, I say let the charter give:

First—A Mayor elected for two years, to have the powers and responsibilities which Mr. NORDHOFF mentions, (one year is too short a time.)

Secondly—A Board of Aldermen, one for each Ward, who pay an annual tax upon say $50,000, and elected by residents who pay an annual tax upon property valued at a given sum—i. e. $10,000. All appropriations and expenditures to pass this body as well as the Common Council.

Thirdly—A Common Council as Mr. NORDHOFF suggests.

The additions to his suggestions involve this idea: While the Mayor and Common Council shall be elected by the popular vote, there shall also be a body elected by those who pay the taxes to represent them. Thus, the people will be represented by the Common Council. The tax-payers will also be represented by the Aldermen, and the Mayor will represent both, and execute the will of the two Boards. Yours, &c., W. B. H.

"Old and New."

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

I noticed in reading the World of today that it insists that our citizens have no right to inquire into the action of "the old régime" (as the terse goes) that governed our City, and tacitly admits that the old régime was a band of thieves, although the same band of thieves compose the new régime. This brings to my recollection a circumstance that happened in my mercantile experience. There was a firm that did business in this City as grocers; they defrauded all who had dealings with them, and finally left the City and opened a dry-goods store in Chicago. I happened to be in Chicago and learned the fact. As I had been swindled by this firm when grocers, I made inquiry about it and learned that the members of the firm were living luxuriously and driving a thriving business. I called on them and demanded what was due, and threatened legal proceedings. The firm was indignant, but admitted that when they were grocers they had been very dishonest, and condemned their course as such, but thought it ungentlemanly and unfair to refer to it, as they were now dry-goods merchants and should not be held responsible for their acts when in the grocery line. I thought otherwise, and had them arrested for fraud. They, to avoid exposure, paid my claim, but their paid advocate was like the World, and persisted to the last in saying that it was not right to go back to the doings of the firm in the grocery business. A MERCHANT.

[A very good story—and now we hope our correspondent will not waste any more of his time in reading the World.]

CHURCH SERVICES.

The Pulpits Occupied Once More After the Vacation.

Various Topics of Interest Considered by the Pastors—Reopening Ceremonies—Pleasant Reunions.

The churches are beginning to fill again, and before the end of the present month crowded congregations will be visible in all the places of worship. Most of the prominent ministers have returned from the country, and the churches were generally well filled yesterday, as many of the Church members who had been absent from the City followed their pastor's example and came back to their City residences.

A few clergymen are still absent, but all are expected to resume their religious duties within a week or two, invigorated in mind and body by their Summer's vacation. Churches were opened yesterday which have been closed for the past two months, and the day being mild and genial, the congregations in each case was nearly as large as that which filled the church previous to the setting in of the warm weather. Some of the sermons are given below.

THE DUTY OF THE CITIZEN.

How New-York is Misgoverned—Sermon by Rev. J. M. Pullman in the Church of our Savior.

Yesterday morning the Church of our Savior, on Thirty-fifth street, near Sixth-avenue, was reopened, when Rev. J. H. PULLMAN preached from Proverbs, eleventh chapter, seventh verse: "By the blessing of the upright the city is exalted: but is overthrown by the mouth of the wicked." The discourse was substantially as follows: First of all we are to consider what it is that bears upon the heart of all good citizens of this City. There have always been two theories of religion—the paternal and the individual or democratic theory. According to the latter God has given to man the power to find out the laws by which the universe is governed. The first of these two theories of religion demands such perfect laws as would touch every system; the other, or democratic theory, seeks to make men able to take care of themselves and teaches the existence of laws by collision with them. It was grand that a man could think that God would care for him without any effort on his part. But there came a time in the history of the Church when this theory was overturned, and then followed the despotic system. Now the old theory has gone its way to desolation, and we find today that self-government is embodied everywhere. We find it not only in religion but in the State. But while it is grand to feel that man can be capable of self-government, yet none is so blind but that he can see that it has arisen with great responsibility. The autocratic principle either in religion or government appeals directly to self-interest, and compels the subject to grovel before the ruler, however he may be. The democratic principle appeals to self-interest too, but to a greatly enlightened a self-interest as to bring it under the definition of unselfishness. Because it sees the necessity for my brother to do exactly what I can benefit him. No man can live under a Republic without vigilance in doing all that he can to maintain the republican form of government. If a man devotes all his energies to making money and does nothing for society, he is our enemy, because he works only for self-interest. The speaker referred to the great visitation of the cholera, and said that there was scarcely a block which did not contain the germs of the disease. But we say it is not our duty to go into these localities and alleviate them. Hence we sit quietly and let the disease break out. Suppose that the Grand Opera-house should be filled with the germs of cholera or of disease, and the people therefrom should be in danger of being waited over the City; would it not be our duty to remove it forthwith? Yet this pestilence is no greater than the corruption which has existed in that opera-house for the past three years and has spread all over the City and penetrated into every household that is not doubly fortified against it. If we do not take the responsibility of removing this and other pestilences, we shall reap ere long terrible punishment for our apathy. We have for years held out our hands and invited the oppressed of all nations to our shores, but while we have considered this a grand thing to do, we have not counted the cost of so doing, and we are now paying the penalty. Citizens are too apt to inquire if it will pay to do their duty. They have abandoned the ballot-box because it would not pay to vote, and we have thus neglected to consider every question which looked to the removal of the evils of misgovernment in this City. Now we are reaping the penalty. Referring to the City plunderers, the speaker said that the act of withholding public accounts and remaining silent under grave charges are evidences of the dishonesty in themselves. He, as a citizen and speaker, no matter about the details, knew men stand confessed as dishonest. It is not within human wisdom to obtain a perfect Government, but it would be some satisfaction if we saw any improvement in that which we have. But we cannot see any progress in the way of reformation, and that in the face of the fact that we dare not wait a moment longer. The frauds are open and not concealed, and therefore if we submit to them we are positively debauched. When I hear men impeach the parks and docks are being improved, and that this is some excuse for the expenditure of money in the form of patronage, it is as if a thief should put a rose in his button-hole, and at the same time take all your money. The principle of improvement was practiced by NAPOLEON while he was ruining France. Some people say they don't want to hear anything about these robberies, and herein lies the great danger—it is apathy. The great black cloud which now hangs over the City will surely burst and involve us in bloodshed and ruin. What we ought to do is to make public opinion, and stop the moral light. There are good Democrats and good Republicans. Remember that every Democrat is not a horse-thief, though many a horse-thief is a Democrat. It is not only sufficient to send men to the Legislature. They should be honorable men as well as honest. We have got to treat this condition of things either as abnormal and unrepublican, and make a property or residence or educational qualification for voters, or we must fix upon minority representation. With this we would have as near a perfect government as was possible. Before we institute reforms immediately, every avenue in this City will run with blood and strife, as did Eighth-avenue on the 12th of July. We must at once, energetically, set about instituting reforms by stimulating public opinion in the right direction, and work earnestly and unceasingly, and thus fully discharge our responsibilities as citizens.

BROOKLYN TABERNACLE.

The Edifice Rededicated—Solemn Services Yesterday—Sermon by Rev. Dr. S. H. Tyng.

The Brooklyn Tabernacle, having been enlarged and improved, was rededicated yesterday in presence of a vast assemblage, which filled every available place. A little more than a year ago the erection of the Tabernacle was begun. On its completion the fame of its preacher, Rev. T. DE WITT TALMAGE, filled its seats to repletion, and soon it was too limited to accommodate all who were anxious to worship within its walls. In view of this fact, it was resolved by the trustees, prior to the Summer vacation this year, to have the edifice enlarged and improved, so that a greater number of persons could be admitted to the services. Accordingly, during the vacation the building was placed in the hands of the artisans, and on the return of the congregation pews had been supplied sufficient to accommodate 500 more people than before. The cost of site, the building itself, and furniture, the grand organ included, is estimated at $80,000. Of this sum $63,000 had been paid previous to yesterday's statutual service. A balance of $18,000 remained to be liquidated, and, in addition, $6,000 for paving the streets in the vicinity of the church had to be subscribed. To meet this debt a collection was taken up yesterday, and the handsome sum of $21,000 was the result. Besides the crowded auditory present in the body of the sacred edifice, a number of eminent clergymen occupied chairs on the preacher's platform.

The sermon on the occasion was preached by Rev. Stephen H. Tyng, D. D., of St. George's Church, New-York. He took as his texts the twentieth and twenty-first verses of the seventeenth chapter of St. John: "Neither pray I for these alone; but for them also which shall believe on me through their word. That they all may be one; as thou, Father, art in me, and I in thee, that they also may be one in us: that the world may believe that thou hast sent me." These verses suggested to the venerable preacher the oneness of Christ's Church. It was an oneness which embraced all denominations here below and the triumphant Church in heaven, and was established upon the basis as "thou Father art one in me and I in Thee." One undivided Church of the Lord Jesus I salute you, said the preacher, as such, and I proclaim to your brethren that fact, and say to you all who are journeying forward, let us press on to our Father's home.

The preacher loved to repeat he continued, his belief in the one Holy Catholic Church and communion of saints. Wherever they found the spirit of God, there they found the Church of Christ was. What millions will have presented themselves before God! are the Sabbath closed to say "we are one as Thou art one in the Son and the in Thee." If Christ was true, and he would not stoop to argue the question, once assuredly the oneness of Christ's Church was verified in the history of man. All Christians he insisted not to assert were radically one, and no assumption of men could divide them. They may be separated by modes, forms, rites and ceremonies, but when spoken to of Jesus Christ they were found to be one. All rested on a Savior's bosom. The whole world, the preacher went on to say, stands around the throne of the living God, and proclaim in words "blessing, honor and power to the Lamb forever." Wherever one meet a church was discovered, rested on Christ, however hunted down by human hostility, however cast out by scribes and Pharisees. None but Christ, he reasoned, made the bond which keeps all Christians together. This union was the most vital of all bonds. In all things are consummated, it will remain as a thing which must last forever. It was a union as one loving spirit who abides within Christian men. It was an absolute and entire unity, which excluded no nationality or portion of mankind. Little indeed, he added, was that person possessed of the spirit of Christ who renounced fellowship with those who were deemed precious in God's sight. This unity was an oneness. The preacher went on to explain in the possession of a common glorious hope. In this hope the whole host of God's Church was walking forward, rejoicing in death as victors over it. The unity of Christ's Church was again shown in the oneness of faith which prevailed, which cannot be shaped by the machinations of men. Everywhere you find this unity, and I stand here before my brothers in the ministry and this vast congregation, who are prepared to take me by the hand in the unity of faith. The man who denies the unity of Christians will find himself, like the prophet of old, rebuked by his own ass. There were no seats in heaven; in that celestial realm all were Christians; and why should they not be such here below? My pilgrimage is now almost finished; the shadows of evening are coming apace. I thank God that He has preserved me in His faith from my youth to the present hour. It was, the speaker said, his manner to feel wish that the congregation before whom he appeared would prosper and spread broadcast the seeds of Christ's Gospel. At 3 o'clock Rev. J. H. VINCENT, D. D., addressed the congregation on the "Old and New Fashions in Sunday-school Work." In the evening, the pastor, Rev. T. DE WITT TALMAGE, preached to a crowded assemblage.

REOPENING SERVICES.

Rev. Dr. A. R. Thompson's Return from California—His Sermon Yesterday.

Services were held yesterday for the first time since the Summer vacation, in St. Paul's Reformed Dutch Church, on Reservoir-square, Fortieth-street, between Fifth and Sixth avenues. The altar was handsomely and profusely decorated with natural flowers, amid which appeared in large letters words of welcome to the pastor, Rev. A. R. THOMPSON, D. D., on his return from California.

Dr. THOMPSON preached from a portion of the thirty-first verse of the twentieth chapter of Acts, which reads: "Therefore watch and remember." These words were remarkable, he said, as being among the last uttered by the great Apostle to the Gentiles, to the Christians at Ephesus, and bear with them all the earnestness which characterizes the words of a dying man. Among the finest traits of character of the then grandest human figure on earth, was that love of and loyalty to its native land. He was then about to go up to Jerusalem, and though he well knew that there awaited him persecutions and perhaps death, yet his heart yearned toward his people, and he longed to be present on the occasion of the feast of Pentecost, as it embraced the opportunity then afforded to preach to his own people—Hebrew of the Hebrews as he was—the gospel of his Divine Lord and Master. The words of the Apostle in connection with the text were pregnant with Christian earnestness and solicitude for those whom he would have embrace the faith of which he was the zealous and unwearied preacher. And now, said the Apostle, "Behold I go bound in the spirit into Jerusalem, not knowing the things that shall befall me there, save that the Holy Ghost witnesseth in every city, saying that bonds and afflictions abide me. But none of these things move me, neither count I my life dear unto myself, so that I might finish my course with joy, and the ministry which I have received of the Lord Jesus, to testify the Gospel of the grace of God. And now, behold, I know that ye all among whom I have gone preaching the kingdom of God shall see my face no more. Therefore, watch and remember that by the space of three years I ceased not to warn every one night and day with tears. I have coveted no man's silver or gold, or apparel. Yea, ye yourselves know that these hands have ministered unto my necessities, and to them that were with me." Dr. THOMPSON concluded his earnest sermon by impressing on the minds of his congregation the necessity of Christian watchfulness, and their obligation to remember the claims of religion and fulfill them with unfaltering fidelity.

ANNIVERSARY EXERCISES.

Sermon of Rev. Frederick Evans at the Central Baptist Church—Interesting Reminiscences.

Last evening, at the Central Baptist Church, south side of Forty-second-street, between Seventh and Eighth-avenues, the annual sermon was preached by the pastor, Rev. FREDERICK EVANS. The text was taken from the first book of Samuel, seventh chapter and twelfth verse, "Then Samuel took a stone and set it between Mizpeh and Shen, and called the name of it Ebenezer, saying, Hitherto hath the Lord helped us." The preacher began by saying, that in many respects the life of the Church is similar to the life of the children of Israel. After briefly referring to their subjugation by Pharaoh, he said it took forty years of bondage to teach them entire trustfulness in God. The children of Israel had their days of darkness, but in answer to the prayers of the people the darkness clears away and the face of God appears. It was in commemoration of God's helping them in their time of need, that Samuel raised a stone and called it Ebenezer. For God's faithfulness to his word, let us to-night raise our Ebenezer. The pastor then glanced over the history of this church, and the one on the corner of Leight-street and Varick. The founders of the Central Baptist Church first met in a dilapidated structure into which the rain often penetrated. A few dozen of struggling Christians who met up-town in Eighth-avenue, were recognized as a church body in 1843. Since that period 1,500 have been received into communion. The Leight-street Church, an offshoot of this one, had been joined to it two months ago, and the two might they were united to harmony. Spiritual fortune-tellers have said that the union would be productive of evil. They were wrong; it had only been productive of good. The attendance at this church a few years ago was small; it was now better. The meetings during the week were well attended. God believed in the young men of the church. During the past year he had delivered 107 sermons and lectures. Some good had been done. Strangers had dropped in among them, and intelligence of their spiritual benefit had been received. The Sunday-school was in a flourishing condition; eight teachers and thirty scholars had been baptised; the school was a nursery of the church. The protracted meetings had been successful. During the year seventy-six had been baptised, fifteen had been received from other churches, and eight had been brought back from a state of lethargy. Of those received into the church, sixteen were husbands and ten wives, and five husbands and wives had together come into the fold. The ages of those received ranged from twelve to sixty-five. Death had been among the congregation during the year, and the Church was thus represented in heaven. One of those who had died was a lady who labored among and preached to the heathen in Birmah. Three of the brethren were studying for the ministry. He exhorted the congregation for their kindness in providing, during the year, so well for his own temporal welfare. In conclusion, he said, let us thank God for the past and trust him for the future. Let us raise, like Samuel, our memorial. In the past peace and prosperity have prevailed in our hearts; let it be so in the future. We can't face the one—we shake hands. Let us pray in the pew, do our duty, carry our religion with us everywhere. The religion of Christ should enter into our houses, our offices, behind our counters and in our workshops. He said, in addition, that it was the desire of the pastor to fill the pulpit at all of the members to fill the church. God, he said, would bless that church that would labor to help itself.

The Exercise of the Pardoning Power.

Gov. LESLIE, of Kentucky, in his inaugural address last week, gave utterance to the following:

"There is no prerogative of the Governor that has exposed him to more censure than that of the pardoning power. And, indeed, that Chief Magistrate who does not sometimes err in its exercise must be more or less than human. Take an instance: his sympathies are aroused by that terrible Nemesis that so often waits on crime, the wretchedness of the innocent. A generous heart cannot but pity the deep anguish and humiliation of a respectable connection upon whose family honor has fallen that stain. He holds, as it were, in his hands their bleeding hearts, to crush or heal by the utterance of a single word. Can you wonder, my fellow-countrymen, that, touched by the holy beauty of a great love, the Executive clemency is granted—not so much to the miserable culprit as to the sorrowing, loving, wounded hearts which still so fondly cling to the fallen one. I shall strive to act conscientiously in the use of this power, and with great caution and prudence; but when you are disposed to censure me for its exercise, recollect that I, too, have a heart of flesh."

POLITICAL AFFAIRS.

NEW-JERSEY'S NEXT GOVERNOR.

The Democratic Conventions Next Wednesday—The Candidates.

The Democratic primary meetings for the election of delegates to the New-Jersey State Convention, to meet at Trenton, next Wednesday, have been held in more than half the counties, and thus far without affording any grounds for indicating the probable nominee for the Governorship. Four candidates have been prominently mentioned, and in some cases delegates have been instructed to vote for one or the others of these. They are NEHEMIAH PERRY, THEODORE RUNYON, JOSEPH D. BEDLE, and LEON ABBETT. Ex-Gov. PARKER is out of the field, having declined to allow his name to be used. Gov. RANDOLPH is not a candidate, for the very good reason that he is prohibited by law from holding the office of Governor for two terms in succession. The comments of some Western papers upon the cowardice of New-Jersey Democrats in returning to renomination Gov. RANDOLPH, after his famous Orange proclamation, and the praise bestowed upon those politicians by a prominent New-York paper because they have "dropped" him, have caused no little amusement among Gov. RANDOLPH's friends. Although neither he nor Mr. PARKER expected any great surprise further at present from New-Jersey, they both expect a nomination on the Presidential ticket next year.

Should Gen. RUNYON obtain the nomination next Thursday, the Methodists of New-Jersey—a very large proportion of the whole population—will have two Brothers of their Church to choose between. Mr. WALSH is prominent in all church movements, and Gen. RUNYON is right behind him in zeal. It is not a rare occurrence to see Gen. RUNYON addressing a Methodist audience on the subject of Sunday-schools, after an exhortation from Mr. WALSH on sanctification. In "revival" meetings the latter is conspicuous. Scarcely a Winter passes that he does not labor in the cause. Both are members of the same congregation in Newark, of which both, Trustees of Drew Theological Seminary. From the fact that Gen. RUNYON was three years ago the most prominent candidate next to Gov. RANDOLPH, and has shown strength in the canvas thus far, it is considered not improbable that he may be Mr. WALSH's opponent before the people.

Mr. PERRY, of Newark, a director of the united railroad companies, ex-member of Congress and a millionaire clothing merchant, has secured a large support in different quarters of the State.

Mr. LEON ABBETT, Ex-Speaker of the State Assembly, has been nominated by several Democratic mass-meetings in Jersey City. He is known throughout the State as one of the ablest men in the party.

Judge BEDLE is a Monmouth County man, and at present one of the Judges of the Supreme Court; his district embracing Bergen, Passaic and Hudson Counties. In these counties and in his native county he is very popular with his party.

Mr. Walsh as a Paterson Working Man.

As to the future state of business, the season is not as yet sufficiently advanced to fully determine results, but nothing has yet occurred tending to controvert our previously-expressed opinion, that, during the latter part of the present month, and in October, the market will be characterized by increased and increasing activity.

SALES PROPOSED THIS WEEK.

The ease of access to the City by both water and rail also adds to their intrinsic value, while the easy terms upon which the lots are offered should attract investors. The sale is announced as absolute and positive. Parties desiring to attend the auction, and to inspect the property before purchasing, can procure free tickets from the auctioneers. Also, the fine 35-ton steam-tender, for the exercised steamer, which leaves Pier No. 34 East River at 9¼ A. M., and returns at 2 P. M. Tickets for the special train leaving foot of Chambers and Twenty-third streets at 11¼ A. M. The sale should meet with success, as the realty is worthy the attention of capitalists.

Bridges, Sawtell, Heywood & Shearman, of No. 52 Wall-street, in the County of New-York, solicitors of the complainants, or their assignees, the property belonging to the said estate of the said deceased, for the sum of $1,000 each, issued by the said Company and certified and countersigned by the said Nelson, Burr and Davis, or one or more of them, and bearing interest at the rate of ten per cent. per annum, payable semi-annually in the City of New-York; and whereas, it was provided in said deed that if the interest on any of such bonds should not be paid when due, and after presentation and demand of payment, the same should remain unpaid for the space of three months, it should be lawful for the undersigned, on the written request of the holders of not less than one-fourth part of said bonds, then outstanding, after having given due notice, to apply to the County Court of Cooper County, and the Mayor of the City of Boonville, to cause said property to be sold at public auction as provided in said deed; and whereas, default has been made because the interest due on the 1st day of July, 1870, and Jan. 1, 1871, was not then paid, although presentation and demand of payment were duly made, and the same has remained in arrears for more than three months, and is still wholly unpaid, and the holders of more than one-fourth part of said bonds have, in writing, requested us to cause said property to be sold. MISSOURI, IOWA, & NEBRASKA RAILWAY

FIRST MORTGAGE GOLD BONDS

INTEREST 7 PER CENT.
Payable in New-York City December and June.
WHOLE ISSUE.....$6,000,000
This road runs from Alexandria, Mo., where it connects (via Keokuk) with the shortest routes to the East, and, PASSING THROUGH THE EARLIEST SETTLED, WEALTHIEST, AND MOST POPULOUS TIER OF COUNTIES IN THE STATE OF IOWA, connects at Nebraska City with the Midland Pacific Railroad to Fort Kearney, on the Union Pacific Railroad, forming a direct line from San Francisco to New-York ABOUT 100 MILES SHORTER THAN ANY EXISTING ROUTE OF CONNECTED LINES. Along the route connections are made with the North Missouri, Missouri and Mississippi, and St. Louis and Cedalia Railroads. The road will be in operation from Alexandria to Memphis, Mo., a distance of 49 miles, within a few weeks, and will be fully completed and equipped to a connection with the North Missouri Railroad (40 miles) by Dec. 1, when it will receive a large and paying traffic.
The whole length of road, including branches, will be 60 miles. The SUBSCRIPTIONS ALREADY OBTAINED ALONG THE LINE AMOUNT TO $615,000 ON THE FIRST 100 MILES, and the Company is assured that the counties west will subscribe sufficient to grade, bridge, and tie the remainder of the road. The official statistics of the counties tributary to this line show a population of 225,000, and the soil is unsurpassed in fertility. This cannot fail to afford only road a large and profitable local business, while the interchange connections East and West, making it an important section of the transcontinental line, will cause it to share a large through business.
We are authorized by the parties to offer these bonds at the LOW PRICE OF 90 AND ACCRUED INTEREST, and we confidently recommend them to investors as a safe and desirable security.

SOUTH CAROLINA RAILROAD COMPANY
SEVEN PER CENT. FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS.
Principal due 1st January, 1883, and coupons payable in New-York 1st January and 1st July.
These bonds are secured on the entire property of the said company, consisting of its line of road from Charleston to the city of Augusta, Ga., 136 miles in length, and leased for ninety-nine years to the Georgia, Carolina and Atlantic Railway and Canal Company, by the terms of which the latter company undertakes to maintain the road and its appurtenances in good order and condition, and to pay the interest on the bonds as it falls due. The present annual rental is $600,000 per annum, and less than $1,000 per mile the length of railway being 536 miles.
The net earnings of the South Carolina Railroad, for the year ending June 30, 1871, were $1,400,000, and the gross earnings for the same period were $2,400,000. The total amount of the First Mortgage Bonds issued is $3,000,000.
The South Carolina Railway is one of the earliest built railways in the United States. Its affairs have ever been managed with care and integrity, and the present management is one of the most able and successful organizations. We recommend to investors the Mortgage Bonds, with the assurance of their being a first class security.

FINANCIAL.

First Mortgage, Convertible, 7 Per Cent. Gold Bonds

OF THE
PEORIA & ROCK ISLAND RAILWAY
OF ILLINOIS.
First Mortgage Bonds - - - $1,500,000
Capital Stock - - - - - - - - 2,000,000
This is a COMPLETED Road of 161 miles in length, connecting the important Cities of Peoria on the Illinois River, and Rock Island, Moline and Davenport, on the Mississippi. Davenport, on the opposite bank of the river, is connected by a railway bridge. The first half of this road was built July 1, 1871, and the last in nov. 1870, since which time, with a success exceeding all anticipation. In order to place upon the road the large equipment necessary for the business offered, and to construct depots, car and engine-houses, machine-shops, &c., equal to any of the best old roads in the country, as is now required of this, the Company offer, through the undersigned, $1,500,000 convertible first mortgage gold bonds, which now are the only security of the Company. Run is less than $17,000 per mile. PRESENT PRICE, 90, AND ACCRUED INTEREST IN CURRENCY. Principal and interest payable in coin, at Bank of the State of New-York, City of New-York, and at the Bank of London, free of tax.
This road, opened for the business local as well as through traffic now offered, will prove one of the most profitable in the West, traversing as it does a section of country unsurpassed in fertility of soil and agricultural resources, already thickly populated and in a high state of cultivation. This is self-evident from the fact that every section of the road passes through cultivated fields and many flourishing towns and villages, with a large city and navigable river at each end. Railroads in the West have been heretofore constructed through unsettled and uncultivated regions of the country, consequently have had but little local traffic to depend upon for several years after completion. But the Peoria and Rock Island Railway is a first class COMPLETED road, with NO PARALLEL or COMPETING LINE, and RUNS THROUGH ONE OF THE RICHEST AGRICULTURAL, MANUFACTURING AND MOST POPULOUS DISTRICTS IN THE WEST. Thus it is certain that the local business is already more than enough to sustain the road, while the through traffic is unlimited, as its connections are numerous, which can be seen by a glance at the map.
This road is a grand central link, to which many of the principal lines centralize and diverge to all parts of the continent.
We invite the attention of investors to this loan. Being familiar with the wealth and resources of the country along the line of this railway and a MEMBER OF OUR FIRM HAVING MADE A CAREFUL EXAMINATION OF THE ROAD AND ITS PROPERTY, WE CAN WITH THE UTMOST CONFIDENCE RECOMMEND THE BONDS AS A PRIME SECURITY, reliable and safe in every particular.
All marketable securities received in exchange at full value, and bonds delivered to all parts of the country, free of express charges.
Maps, circulars, &c., with full particulars relating to the road, furnished on application by the undersigned, Financial Agents of the Company.

OF
RONDOUT AND OSWEGO RAILROAD.
PRINCIPAL AND INTEREST PAYABLE IN GOLD.
Seven Per Cent. per Annum—Payable Semi-Annually.
This Road is now in a condition to show its great value and its very prosperous future, covering, as it does, 107 miles of the most direct possible line between the Great Lakes and deep-water navigation of the Hudson, and connecting at Rondout with the Erie, Ontario and Delaware to railroad facilities heretofore strictly reserved to them. Fifty miles of this road is now built, and in successful operation, EARNING ALREADY 10 PER CENT. ON THE WHOLE AMOUNT OF THE BONDS, OR MORE THAN THE INTEREST PERMANENT MORTGAGE BONDS WILL BE RUNNING EXPENSES. The balance of the road, 57 miles, to Woodstock, 25 miles; to Willowvale, 32 miles, and clearing operations from Rondout to Kingston Point, is under contract with able and responsible parties to be finished by July 1, 1872. It will be one of the best built roads in the country, and the issue of Bonds is limited to $30,000 per mile of completed road. The Bonds are secured by Trust Deed to the Mercantile Trust Company, covering every description of property the Rondout and Oswego Company now own, or may acquire hereafter. The price is now 90 currency and accrued interest, with the privilege of advancing the price hereafter.

First Mortgage Bonds

OF THE
MOBILE & MONTGOMERY RAILROAD COMPANY,
Indorsed by State of Alabama.
PRINCIPAL AND INTEREST
PAYABLE IN GOLD.
After a careful examination, we confidently recommend these bonds, because—
1. They are a first mortgage upon a road already completed and in successful operation, with net earnings largely in excess of several years' interest.
2. MUCH LESS THAN FOUR-FIFTHS OF THE AUTHORIZED ISSUE of the whole authorized to be issued.
3. The proceeds of these bonds will complete an unbroken line of railway from Mobile, Ala., to the city of Montgomery, Ala., and thus ENABLE THEM TO PRESENT STEAM-BOAT SERVICE, CURTAILING EXPENSE AND INCREASING EFFICIENCY OF THE ROAD.
4. The road is now earning a surplus of nearly $250,000 a year over $24,000 PER MILE, COST OF ROAD OVER $20,000 PER MILE.
5. It connects MOBILE and MONTGOMERY, and has a line to the north from NEW-ORLEANS to NEW-YORK, and also between the GULF and LOUISVILLE, by the recently completion of the road from Montgomery to Decatur, where it connects with the LOUISVILLE AND NASHVILLE RAILROAD COMPANY, who thus display their estimate of the value of the route.
6. They are both issued and guaranteed by the STATE OF ALABAMA, the value of whose indorsement has been recently tested and fully established.
7. Some of the most careful investors in ENGLAND and this country, after investigation, have bought these bonds for permanent investment, so that now only about $150,000 are on the market, which are for sale at present at 85 and ACCRUED INTEREST, by

MURDER IN THIRD-AVENUE.

A Young Man Shot Down at His Own Door—Escape of the Murderer.

Many additions were made yesterday to the already long catalogue of homicides, deadly assaults, and other outrages which have recently occurred. That the lawlessness of the City is becoming dangerously aggressive in consequence of the immunity lately enjoyed by the assassins, the Police failing to make arrests of the perpetrators of these deadly assaults, is shown by the fact that the most serious of all the bloody deeds of yesterday was committed in the same precinct to which young DORIAN fell on Thursday last, under the knife of a murderer who is still at large.

The latest tragedy of the Nineteenth Precinct was as signally illustrative of the unchecked ruffianism of that portion of the City as was the Dorian murder. At about 1 o'clock yesterday morning a party of four men were walking down Third-avenue, near Forty-second-street. They were friends, or more properly acquaintances, and were all reputable in their pursuits. One was JOHN MCCAULEY, twenty-eight years of age, a baggage-master on the New-Haven Railroad, who lived at No. 665 Third-avenue with his wife and two children. Another was THOMAS MURPHY, a gate-tender at the Harlem Railroad Depot, in this City; a third was WILLIAM COUGHLIN, a blacksmith, living at Fourth-avenue and Forty-second-street, and the fourth was DAVID BLAKE, of No. 1 East Forty-second-street. None of these men were drunk, although they had been at least in one liquor-shop during the night, and the moment before the tragedy occurred MCCAULEY's friends were escorting him to his home, which was then only a few steps distant. There had been some little bickering between MCCAULEY and MURPHY, originating, most probably in business jealousy. MCCAULEY had been promoted from the position of brakeman, and it was generally believed that he was soon to be advanced to that of conductor. MURPHY seems to have said something derogatory of his claims to these promotions, to which MCCAULEY made some reply. MURPHY then said, "I'm a gentleman," to which MCCAULEY struck him a stinging blow with his fist. MURPHY stepped back two or three paces, drew a revolver, and, taking deliberate aim, fired, the bullet taking effect in the left breast of MCCAULEY who fell dying to the sidewalk. As he fell he exclaimed, "I'm shot," and as the words escaped his lips MURPHY started on a run down Forty-second-street, and dropping his hat as he ran, did not pause to pick it up.

The report of the pistol was heard by Roundsman FANNING, Patrolman WILSON and Patrolman REGAN, all of the Nineteenth Precinct, who were on post in the vicinity, and immediately hastened to the spot. MCCAULEY was then dying, and before the officers, assisted by COUGHLIN and BLAKE, could get him to the Station-house, he was a corpse. BLAKE gave Capt. GUNNER a full account of the tragedy, and added that MURPHY was a man five feet eight inches in height, stoutly built, of florid complexion, with brown hair, mustache and goatee. This description was immediately telegraphed out in order to secure the arrest of the assassin, and it was thought for a moment that he had been secured. Very soon after the murder Patrolman O'HARA, who was on post at Forty-ninth-street and Second-avenue, saw a hatless man approaching in great haste, who, seeing the officer, turned to the left down a side street. O'HARA interested him, and he would not explain his conduct satisfactorily the patrolman took him to the Station-house. He there gave his name as JOHN MURPHY, but both COUGHLIN and BLAKE at once declared that he was not the murderer. He stated that he lived at No. 1 East Forty-ninth-street, and that when arrested he was going home after assembling his hat to a drinking party at Twenty-sixth-street and Second-avenue, one of whom had sought to detain him by taking his hat. This explanation was entirely satisfactory, but Capt. GUNNER detained MURPHY until he was discharged some hours afterward by Coroner YOUNG.

This incident was the only approach to an arrest in connection with the murder. Although every effort was made to discover MURPHY, he could not be found anywhere in the City, and up to a late hour last night was still at large. There was no doubt, however, that he would be secured, as he is well known to many persons, and the Police have an accurate description of him. To be ready for the contingency of his arrest, COUGHLIN and BLAKE were detained by Coroner YOUNG as witnesses. The body of the murdered man was removed yesterday to the Morgue, where Dr. MARSH, Deputy Coroner, made a post-mortem examination. He found that the ball had entered the left side between the fourth and fifth ribs, and having passed through the left lung and the heart, had traversed the entire body probably in a downward direction, so that it could not be traced and found without more laceration of the body than was necessary to determine the cause of death. After the post-mortem the body was delivered to the friends and removed to the late residence of the deceased. It will be viewed there by the public to be unparalleled today by Coroner YOUNG, who has not, however, yet fixed any day for the holding of the inquest. The affair has created great excitement in the portion of the City where it occurred, which is not lessened by the fact that MURPHY is the third assassin who has lately escaped arrest in the Nineteenth Precinct.

Another Savage Assault.

At 3 o'clock last evening ELI D. SPEAR, a Sheriff's watchman on board the canal-boat Matnock, lying in the East River, at the foot of Fifty-first-street, was assaulted by the steersman of the boat, whose name is not known, who struck him on the head with a stone, inflicting a severe wound. The assailant escaped.

Brutal Assault by a Husband.

Yesterday afternoon, at No. 77 Charlton-street, ALEXANDER ELLIOTT assaulted his wife SARAH, striking her a savage blow on the head, inflicting a severe scalp-wound. He was arrested and locked up in the Twenty-eighth Precinct Station-house to await arraignment before the Magistrate at the Jefferson Market Police Court this morning.

A West-Side Outrage.

PATRICK DEIGNAN, of No. 223 West Seventeenth-street, was assaulted last evening in Twenty-fifth-street, near Ninth-avenue, by a boy named BESSON, who struck him on the head with a stone, inflicting a severe wound. The assailant was arrested and locked up in the Sixteenth Precinct Station-house.

Shooting in Weehawken.

JOSEPH LIPPERT and JOHN BRUENS, both of whom live at No. 142 West Thirty-first-street, visited Weehawken yesterday, and when in Niles-avenue, one JOHN BRAWLEY, a resident of Weehawken, who was walking a short distance ahead of them, was wounded in the right thigh by a pistol-shot. He accused them of shooting him, and followed them to the foot of Forty-second-street, where he caused their arrest by Patrolman O'BRIEN, of the Twentieth Precinct, and they were held to await an investigation. The wound of BRAWLEY is not serious.

Funeral of the Murdered Dorian.

DAVID L. J. DORIAN, who was so inhumanly murdered at Jones' Wood on Thursday last while protecting a young girl from insult, was buried yesterday afternoon from his residence, No. 179 Delancey-street, near Clinton, the McLaughlin Association, of which he was a member, having charge of the funeral. Nearly 3,000 persons were gathered in and about the house to see the procession start. The remains were taken to Calvary Cemetery. There were twelve pall-bearers, whose names were as follows: Timothy J. Campbell, P. J. McLaughlin, Patrick F. Calhoun, Henry C. Bernrand, Isaac Rivenbarch, Jacob Cole, Henry Mack, Peter Broderick, John Pursell, Jacob Kohl, James M. Crolius, and Michael McAnally. DORIAN was a married man, twenty-nine years of age, and leaves a wife and two children. A young man has been arrested, and is now locked up in the Thirteenth Precinct Station-house, on suspicion of being the murderer, or having a guilty knowledge of the killing. Coroner YOUNG refuses to let his name be known, and last night notified his parents of his whereabouts. Capt. GUNNER, of the Nineteenth Precinct, does not believe he is the one who did the killing, but believes that he knows who did it. More will probably be known today.

Daring Street Outrage.

When passing through South-street, early yesterday morning, STEPHEN ALLEN, a laborer, who lives in Brooklyn, was attacked by three ruffians, knocked down, severely beaten and robbed of his watch. The footpads fled immediately after completing the robbery, but from a description of them, given by ALLEN, Patrolman CRAIG, of the Fourth Precinct, arrested ROBERT HUBER, a butcher living at No. 29 Oak-street, who was identified by ALLEN as one of those concerned in the outrage. The prisoner was arraigned before Alderman COMAN at the Tombs Police Court, and was committed to answer. ALLEN was sent to the House of Detention.

Alleged Stealing of a Watch and Chain.

JOHN MORRISSEY, a sailor belonging to the ship Sir Robert Peel, was arraigned yesterday before Alderman COMAN at the Tombs Police Court on a charge of stealing a watch and chain from Mrs. ELLEN DERLEY. She stated that she came to the City a few days ago and went to the boarding-house No. 29 Greenwich-street, with the prisoner, who soon afterward disappeared with her property. He claimed that she had given him the watch and chain, but he was committed for trial, and the complainant was sent to the House of Detention.

Assault With a Razor.

Another case of felonious assault occurred yesterday in the room of ROBERT PATTERSON, a colored man, at No. 46 Thomas-street, that person being assaulted by JOHN MITCHELL, who lives in the same house, who cut him on the head with a razor, inflicting a severe wound. MITCHELL was arrested and was committed by Alderman COMAN for trial.

Felonious Assaults in Tenement-Houses.

About 11 o'clock yesterday morning a dispute arose in the tenement-house No. 10 Morris-street, about paying for some liquor, as one side being PATRICK KELLY and his wife SUSAN, and on the other PATRICK MAHONEY and his wife MARGARET. The altercation culminated in a general fight, which resulted in the discomfiture of the KELLYS. MAHONEY, being armed with an old bayonet, stabbed PEGAN in the right arm and struck him over the head, causing two severe wounds; and SUSAN received a severe cut on one of her fingers. The MAHONEYS were both arrested, and being arraigned yesterday before Alderman COMAN, at the Tombs, were committed for trial.

An affray also occurred in the tenement, No. 264 Mulberry-street, at 2 o'clock early in the morning, during which CATHARINE MCCLANE struck PATRICK MCCALLUM on the head with a bowl, inflicting a severe scalp wound. She was arrested, and being arraigned before Alderman COMAN at the Tombs, was committed to answer.

The Eel Creek Mystery.

The body of the young woman found on the shore of Long Island Sound, near Eel Creek, has not yet been identified, and the name of the yacht which was seen in the harbor on Monday, the 4th inst., has not been ascertained. Strong suspicions are entertained that the murdered woman was on board that vessel. It is reported that District-Attorney DOWNING has taken the matter in hand, with a view to a thorough investigation. Large numbers continue to visit the place where the body was found.

The Pearl-Street Stabbing Case.

Coroner YOUNG yesterday took the ante-mortem statement of JOHN SCHNEIDER, aged seventeen years, who was stabbed in Pearl-street on Thursday last by JOHN MCGAW, aged thirteen years, of No. 5 New Bowery, who has not yet been arrested. The injured boy, who is at Bellevue Hospital, and whose condition is considered extremely critical, gave the same facts in regard to the brutal assault upon him which have been published in the TIMES.

The Slaughter-House Homicide.

An inquest has been held by Coroner YOUNG, in the case of JOHN KANE, who died from injuries inflicted by ALBERT W. LAMB. The jury having heard the evidence, which gave only the facts already published in the TIMES, rendered a verdict that the deceased came to his death from injuries received by being struck on the head with a stick called a "gamble" in the hands of ALBERT W. LAMB, and exonerating LAMB from all blame in the matter, as he had acted in self-defense. LAMB was then discharged from custody by the Coroner.

Mysterious Death.

Yesterday a man who had been employed as a laborer in Union Hill, was brought to St Mary's Hospital, in Hoboken, by one WILLIAM MAGEE. When the wagon, in which the sick man was brought, arrived at the door he was dead. He had been ill two days. Dr. MITCHELL examined the body of the deceased but could give no opinion as to the cause of his death. A post-mortem examination will be held, and the employer of the deceased, whose name has not been reported—will be called to testify.

Women Attacked by a Crazy Man.

Last evening FREDERICK HAUSHALTER, a German, living at No. 13 Marshall-street, Newark, was arrested for attempting to kill his wife and daughter. While temporarily insane, it is supposed, he seized a bayonet and attacked them. He was held for examination.

Bodies at the Morgue.

Yesterday the bodies of three unknown men were received at the Morgue. The first was found at the foot of Thirty-seventh-street, East River, and appears to be about forty years old; is five feet ten inches high, and dressed in a black corded coat, gray striped pantaloons, white shirt, white cotton socks. The second was found at Pier No. 37 North River; age, fifty-five years; five feet eight inches high, wore a gray hair sack coat, black vest, blue pantaloons, white shirt, and boots. The third body was discovered at the foot of Pier No. 9 North River, and seemed to be that of a man about twenty-five years; five feet eight inches in height; it was dressed in a black cloth coat, black cloth pantaloons, gray vest, white shirt, white ribbed under-shirt, white cotton socks, and boots; the body has been photographed, for the purpose of identification.

ALMOST ANOTHER DISASTER.

Accident on the Coney Island Steamer Norwalk—Panic Among the Passengers—One of Them Jumps Overboard—The Walking-Beam Gives Way.

Yesterday afternoon, a report was circulated that another frightful Westfield disaster had taken place on board the Coney Island boat, the Norwalk. The dead and the wounded were, it was said, very numerous, and the scene one of intense horror. Naturally, the public mind, after recent experiences, is quick to receive such tales of horror, and it was generally accepted as genuine. A reporter of the TIMES was sent to inquire into the circumstances, and he visited the Norwalk, lying at the foot of Tenth-street in the North River. Externally there was no sign of any damage, save that no walking-beam was visible, and on boarding the boat every thing seemed in its normal condition until the space was reached between the boiler and the aft cabin. Here there was a curious sight. The walking-beam was lying across a transom with the piston-rod doubled like a fish-hook, and with the head of the cylinder clinging to it. One of the employes of the Company very politely and pleasantly detailed the circumstances. As the Norwalk was returning from Coney Island on her 2 P. M. trip, just as she was abreast of Robin's Reef, the pins fastening the walking-beam to the gallows-beam came out, and the ponderous beam fell through the hurricane-deck, crushing the stout planking into infinitesimal splinters. The engineer immediately stopped the engine, and Captain WILSON rushing among the excited passengers did his best to calm them. Since the terrible Westfield disaster and the minor explosions which have occurred recently, the public traveling on steam-boats have been very much on the qui vive, and have evinced some anxiety as to where they should seat themselves. Naturally, when they heard the crashing of the timbers, and found that the boat had suddenly stopped their feelings were greatly excited, and there was much confusion. One gentleman scoring two young ladies was so agitated that he forgot his fair charges, and made one terrific jump from the upper deck, going clean through the awning and landing on the lower deck in a confused heap. He quickly rallied again, plunged desperately over the side into the tranquil water, but being unable to swim had to be hauled out more quickly and melancholy with a boat-hook. The gentlemen generally behaved ill, and fought savagely over the life-preservers while the ladies remained quiet, some looking on scornfully, some praying and some weeping silently. Capt. WILSON at length succeeded in calming them by explaining that there was no danger whatever. The sea was quite calm and the boat drifted a little until it was taken in tow by the Transport. As this vessel was heavily loaded with grain, and as the wind was light they made but little progress, and when the tug Relief came in sight it was signaled and engaged to tow the disabled steamer to her dock at the foot of Tenth-street, where the passengers were landed, all in high spirits, save the hero who had been boat-hooked from a watery grave. There were only about seventy passengers, as this was the first afternoon trip from the island.

Destructive Fire in East Forty-Eighth-Street.

About 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon fire was discovered in the engine house attached to the umbrella frame manufactory, Nos. 218, 220 and 222 East Forty-eighth-street, owned by the American Manufacturing Company, of which S. T. MEYERS is President. The fire, beginning in the engine-house in rear of and detached from the main edifice, extended to the latter up to the third floor. The loss, which will reach $10,000, is principally incurred by damage to the machinery, but is fully covered by insurance, as the Company has policies to the amount of $60,000 on stock and machinery. The building, which is owned by AARON JACOBS, No. 73 West Forty-eighth-street, will require $6,000 for repairs, and is insured for $12,000 in the Brooklyn, Equitable and Kolsterbocker Insurance Companies. The fire originated in the boiler-room, but the cause has not yet been ascertained.

CENTRAL PARK YESTERDAY.

Various Classes of Visitors—Objects of Interest—The Zoological Collection.

Though year by year commercial enterprise opens up to the Sunday excursionists of New-York fresh fields of delight and new scenes of adventure, yet Central Park will never fail to be the great resort of the sons and daughters of Old Gotham. The wise and far-seeing judgment of the men who planned it evidently foresaw this, from its proximity, and perhaps from a foreboding that the time might come when the toilers of New-York could only have such pleasures as were offered gratis. From its inception to the present moment no pains have been spared to give it every possible attraction. Some of the recent additions, such as the sheep-fold, seem of questionable merit, but the Arsenal and its neighborhood have unquestionably been rendered perfect synonyms of interest to tens of thousands. The Park, on Sunday, has three distinct classes of visitors—the aristocrats who drive in their splendid equipages and form one of the sights of the place, the minor fashionables who promenade on the Mall and the Terrace, and the families of working people who spend all day in the entertaining resorts, bring their lunches with them in baskets, and religiously scramble and crowd around the cages of the wild beasts down by the Arsenal building. For their sakes the sternest moralist might unbend a little, and permit the padlocks to be opened that restrain the swings. For these, too, the doors of the Museum in the Arsenal might fly open. As it is, however, they have plenty of things to see and they enjoy them hugely. The steady-going father, carrying his stout two-year-old boy, and conveying a surreptitious bottle of lager in his pocket, has a hard time of it explaining the questions that rain down upon him from the young fry. "What's them, daddy?" cries a youngster, staring open-mouthed at the fine ostriches in the inclosure behind the building devoted to the Falstaff. "Them's camels," replies the man after a little hesitation. "No, they ain't," puts in a sharp street Arab clad in hopeless rags, but keen as a razor and enjoying the sight with the rest of them. "Them's burds, and they feeds on stones and old iron."

The houses of the wild animals are grouped around the Arsenal very commodiously, so that the visitor may stroll along and see the whole. The greatest attraction is probably the cage of the grizzly bears, mother and son. The ursine lady appears to be so happy in having her offspring to cheer her loneliness that she bears her captivity with great good humor, and regards the mob crowding around her cage with much kindness. Occasionally her young hopeful is sulky, when she cuffs him with a kind, but thwack of her paw upon his hind-quarters, which he immediately rubs in the most natural fashion. Mrs. Bruin is frightfully clumsy, and in consequence of an injury to her left hind foot moves in the most ungainly fashion.

The felidæ represented are not very numerous but they are fine specimens, and afford unusual delight to the Sunday visitors. It may be doubted if the Sunday visitors afford them much gratification, for the majority lie sleeping, with their backs turned contemptuously to the spectators. There is, however, a lioness who sits with the fore-paws extended in the attitude of the sphinx. Her fine eyes are fixed unwaveringly upon the opposite wall, and she seems to be lost in reverie, thinking of past times, dreaming day-dreams perhaps of sandy Libyan deserts, of fierce hunts after antelopes, and cool drinks at noonday from sparkling rivers. Her section of the cage is divided from the next by a partition of metal some four feet high. Occasionally she rears up against this and peeps into her neighbor's den to see how the tigress is getting on. Her neighbor is a male lion with a very ragged mane, and a disconsolate and downcast look. He sometimes eyes his admirers among the crowd as if he would like to give them a taste of his quality, and then they burst into exclamations of delight and talk about the flash of his eyes for the next minute or two. There is a handsome dromedary, who regards the crowd with quite a benevolent aspect. This fine fellow, though belonging to the cat tribe, has many of the points of a dog, and greatly resembles that extinct species known as a talbot. But the most comic animal is a sun bear or Malayan bear, who occupies a cage under the black panther's den. This poor little wretch looks something like a bear, something like a dog, and something like a monkey. He has been taught to walk on his hind legs and to beg for fruit, but he does not get much on Sunday, for the sight-seers are rather afraid of this truly innocent animal. He occasionally applies his eye to a crack in the partition of his cage, and sniffs in a questioning manner at his neighbors, the agoutis.

The most lamentable spectacle is the cage of chanticleer. It is very spacious, open to the fresh air, shielded from the sun, furnished with dead trees for perches, and provided with abundance of food. But the inmates are dreadfully bedraggled and forlorn in appearance. Some of them gaze fixedly around with a curious intent watchfulness which seems to see everything, and is in strange contrast with the stare of the honest, which seems to see nothing. But they all look unhappy and disgusted. Pity for them, especially the women, who often exclaim against the cruelty of keeping such noble birds prisoners. These birds of prey are plausible in their captivity, and have permitted a company of intrusive sparrows to build nests above their heads in the space between the wires and the iron sheltered roof. These saucy marauders fly in and out regardless of the mighty talons and the cruel beaks of the prisoned king birds, and even twitter in response to the hoarse screams of some restless eagle.

A Sunday Morning Silk Burglary—Daring Attempt of a Prisoner to Break Jail.

At an early hour yesterday morning JESSIE C. KINNER, of No. 107 West Broadway, saw two men enter and leave the premises No. 97 Howard-street. Each carried a bag. Suspecting their intentions, Mr. KINNER followed them and saw them enter the house No. 44 Market-street. Mr. KINNER went to the Seventh Precinct Station-house and gave information, when Officers O'BRIEN and MALLEY were sent to investigate the matter. At No. 44 Market-street, on the third floor, they found one of the two men, and in his possession were two bags containing a large quantity of silk goods. The second man had escaped. The man arrested was brought to the station-house, and on being searched, four skeleton keys were found in his possession. The Police then went to No. 97 Howard-street, and found that the store of BRUNO & DANIEL RICHTER had been broken into. BRUNO RICHTER, who resides at No. 197 Henry-street, was called up, and on examination he found that the store had been plundered of about $500 worth of silk goods, consisting principally of neckties, bows, and scarfs. Mr. RICHTER identified the silks found with the prisoner as those that had been stolen from his premises. The prisoner was brought to the Essex Market Police Court yesterday forenoon, where he was looked up, pending the arrival of Judge KOCH. Here the fellow made a most daring and dexterous attempt to escape, showing that he was no novice in the art of jail-breaking. With a small piece of tin, seemingly quite inadequate for the purpose, he contrived to pick the lock of the door. He had it gently open and was peering out, ready for a favorable moment to slip forth, when Officer ANDERSON, belonging to the Court happened to pass and noticed the door ajar. He instantly seized the prisoner and thrust him back into confinement. The Court was filled with people at the time, and on the burglar's exploit becoming known, there was considerable commotion, every one running over to see how the thing was done. The prisoner coolly took in some of the officers and showed them how he had manipulated the lock. Justice KOCH committed the scoundrel in default of $1,000 bail to stand his trial at General Sessions.

Suicide by Drowning.

About 6 o'clock yesterday morning a man of respectable appearance walked slowly out upon the pier at the foot of Christopher-street, and, standing for a moment on the edge of the pier, looked intently about him, and then deliberately jumped into the North River. A man who had witnessed the incident rushed up, and as the suicide rose to the surface threw him the end of a rope which fell immediately beside him. The man, however, rejected the means of safety thus offered, and sinking again was drowned. The body was immediately recovered and taken to the Morgue for identification and inquest. It was that of a man about twenty-four years of age, five feet six inches in height, with brown hair and mustache. He had on a blue dress-coat, gray vest, brown striped pantaloons, white shirt, blue neck-tie, white knit under-shirt, brown straw hat, and light boots. Coroner YOUNG will hold an inquest in the case today at the City Hall.

Meeting of Italians—Settling Up the Accounts of the Celebration—Political Clubs—An Italian Emigration Bureau.

A meeting of Italians was held last evening at the Germania Assembly Rooms, to hear the report of the Committee of Arrangements having in charge the recent celebration, Mr. N. CARADE presiding. The report of the Committee upon their financial receipts, expenditures and the disposition of the small amount left over proving satisfactory, other matters were discussed having a bearing upon the prosperity and welfare of Italians in the City. Among them was the formation of political clubs and the organization of a bureau of emigration, to consist of a committee of special commissioners similar to those of the Germans and other foreigners to receive Italian immigrants at Castle Garden, and extend to them aid, protection and advice, to help find them employment, and if they desire to remain in New York to look out for their interests until they become accustomed to the language and customs of the country, and are in a way to take care of themselves. The persons who are to attend to the work are to be selected by the Società Unione e Fratellanza Italiana (Italian Benevolent Society), and are to cooperate with the State Commissioners of Emigration.

The project is strongly recommended by the Italian organ, D'Eco d'Italia, and meets with much favor among the Italians.

A Man Killed on the Harlem Railroad.

Coroner MEEKS, yesterday, commenced an investigation, at Mount Vernon, in regard to a railroad accident, by which Mr. THOMAS H. STACEY, a resident of West Fordham, and doing business as a plumber, at No. 107 Third-avenue, New-York, lost his life. Shortly after 7 o'clock on Saturday evening, Mr. STACEY called upon Major B. F. WALLACE, Mount Vernon, to hire a wagon to convey him to Fordham, stating that he had got on a New-Haven Railroad train instead of a Harlem train, and was, therefore, going beyond his destination. While the carriage was being prepared for him he strolled off somewhere and neglected to call for it, but passed without taking any notice until reminded by the driver of the wagon, when he replied that he did not want the vehicle then, as he was going to return by the freight-train at the station, which, however, was going toward New-Haven. He was seen to cross the track twice, each time falling down, and on approaching the train a brakeman asked him where he wanted to go to, and he replied "Harlem Bridge," when he was told that the train was going the other way, and that he must get off. In the course of half an hour afterward Mr. STACEY was found dead on the track, one foot cut nearly off, his neck, one arm and collar-bone and spinal-bone broken; and although his head was found projecting over the rail, it was evident that the wheels had not passed over it, but in what manner the death was effected is at present somewhat a mystery. The inquest was postponed until the attendance of the brakeman and engineer can be secured.

The Mystery of "Naturalization."

It is well known that just previous to each election the Courts of this City are engaged, day after day, in manufacturing Democratic voters out of newly-arrived emigrants, who fraudulently claim the right to be naturalized, or out of men of spurious identity. Thousands of fraudulent voters are thus made every year, and every year we have denounced and exposed in detail the shamelessness of these transactions. Our inspection of the Controller's report shows another phase of the naturalization swindle which has heretofore been overlooked. We find that on the 14th of June, 1870, seventy-three clerks were paid $250 each, or a total of $18,250 for "services rendered during naturalization" in the Court of Common Pleas, the Supreme Court and the Superior Court. Among the persons so paid we find that a majority of them held regular situations as clerks of Court, or were employed in some branch of the Tammany Government, and consequently drew pay twice for the same period. Others thus paid are clerks belong to the shoulder-hitting fraternity; can scarcely read or write, and, of course, never pretended to render clerical service for the money paid them. The service which they did render consisted in scouring the slums of the City and bringing forward for naturalization ignorant or unprincipled persons, and "swearing them through" as being entitled to the right of suffrage. It was for perjury in the interests of the Ring that these persons were paid, and not for clerical services rendered. This $18,250 is but a specimen of the payments made for similar services every year.

Pretty Little Gas Bills.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

A gentleman stated a few days since that he was informed by a director of one of the gas companies of this City "that the companies had not been paid for the last three years, and that the City is at the present time owing them nearly $4,000,000," notwithstanding the people are taxed each year to pay the expenses of the City Government. Lately the Harlem Company demanded payment, when the Controller paid them in bonds after taking off a large discount. If the above is true it is important, and the tax-payers should know it. Hoping you will give this a little of your attention, I am, yours, &c.
